FOREIGN TROOPS SUMMONED BY MINISTERS TO PEKING

Incendiarism and Looting Break Out Afresh in the Capital and Aliens Are in Peril.

Peking, March 2.—The foreign ministers here, after a conference, have decided to bring into Peking all the available foreign troops stationed in adjacent ports in China. A force of 1,000 troops of various nationalities will arrive here tomorrow.

The action of the ministers in calling in foreign troops to Peking was decided on at a meeting convened partly as a result of a communication from Tang Shao-Yi asking the powers to take measures to prevent further bloodshed and loss of property in Peking.

RENEWAL OF ATROCITIES.

Peking, March 2.—A serious, re-occurrence of disorder occurred this morning when at nine o'clock a detachment of artillery headed by a band marched to the palace of Duke Kuei-Hsiang, father of the emperor dowager, and shelled down the gate. They looted a large amount of property and burned a portion of the palace.

Although last night parties of soldiers belonging to the army commanded by Chang Hui-Chih, were engaged in looting, today they are fighting the looters in the outskirts of the city. Any prisoners taken by them are summarily decapitated, and many headless bodies are lying in the streets in various parts of the city.

During the small hours, particularly in the distant part of West City, considerable trouble occurred. Whole streets of shops were looted and many houses were set on fire.

SUFFRAGETTES IN WORSE ODOR NOW

Leaders Severely Punished for Window Smashing Riots in Business Streets of London.

London, March 2.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, Mrs. Jukes and Mrs. Marshall, the three leaders of last evening's window smashing campaign, by which the suffragettes almost succeeded in terrorizing the London tradesmen, were today sentenced each to two months imprisonment. They were the first three of the 124 women who were arrested in the course of the street demonstrations and who are to be arraigned at the Bow street police court chiefly on charges of causing willful damage to stores in Bond street, Piccadilly, Regent street, Oxford street, the Haymarket, the Strand, as well as other busy shopping streets. The attorney for the prosecution announced in court today that the total damage done by the suffragettes in their stone throwing manifestations was estimated at $25,000, and on behalf of the government, he stated that the time had now arrived when the consideration, which had been hitherto shown in connection with suffragette riots could no longer be allowed.

The friendly audience that has heretofore been present in the police court at suffragette prosecutions, was absent today, and Mrs. Pankhurst and her companions faced public benches which were generally occupied by sympathizers with the storekeepers whose premises had suffered damage. The sentences of the three leaders were received with applause.

On the delivery of the sentence by the magistrate, Mrs. Pankhurst declared that she intended to go farther when she came out of prison and that the suffragettes were prepared to go to the fullest limit, to show the government that women were going to secure the vote.

Sentences ranging from a fortnight to two months, were pronounced on a number of prisoners, but most of the women were committed for trial at the London sessions, as the damage caused by each of them exceeded $25. About thirty cases were dealt with today, the remainder being adjourned.

PERMITS GET A BOOST.

Y. W. C. A. Building Helped Out for the Month of February.

A $35,000 permit for building the Y. W. C. A. home on West Wayne street, issued last month, helped boost the total estimated costs of structures for which permits were taken out to $87,800.

For the corresponding month of last year twenty-seven permits were issued and the total estimated cost was $40,600. Only fifteen permits were issued in February of this year.

MRS. DOUGLASS BETTER.

Mrs. D. Burns Douglass, who was taken alarmingly ill on Thursday and removed to the Lutheran hospital, is very much improved today. Her condition yesterday occasioned much apprehension, but a change for the better manifested itself last evening. Mrs. Douglass is suffering from uraemic poisoning.

HOLDING JOINT INSTITUTE.

The school teachers of Adams, Washington, Wayne and St. Joe townships, are holding a joint institute this afternoon in the assembly room in the Electric building. Dr. C. B. Stemen delivered an address on the subject of "The Value of Medical Inspection of Pupils in the Public Schools."

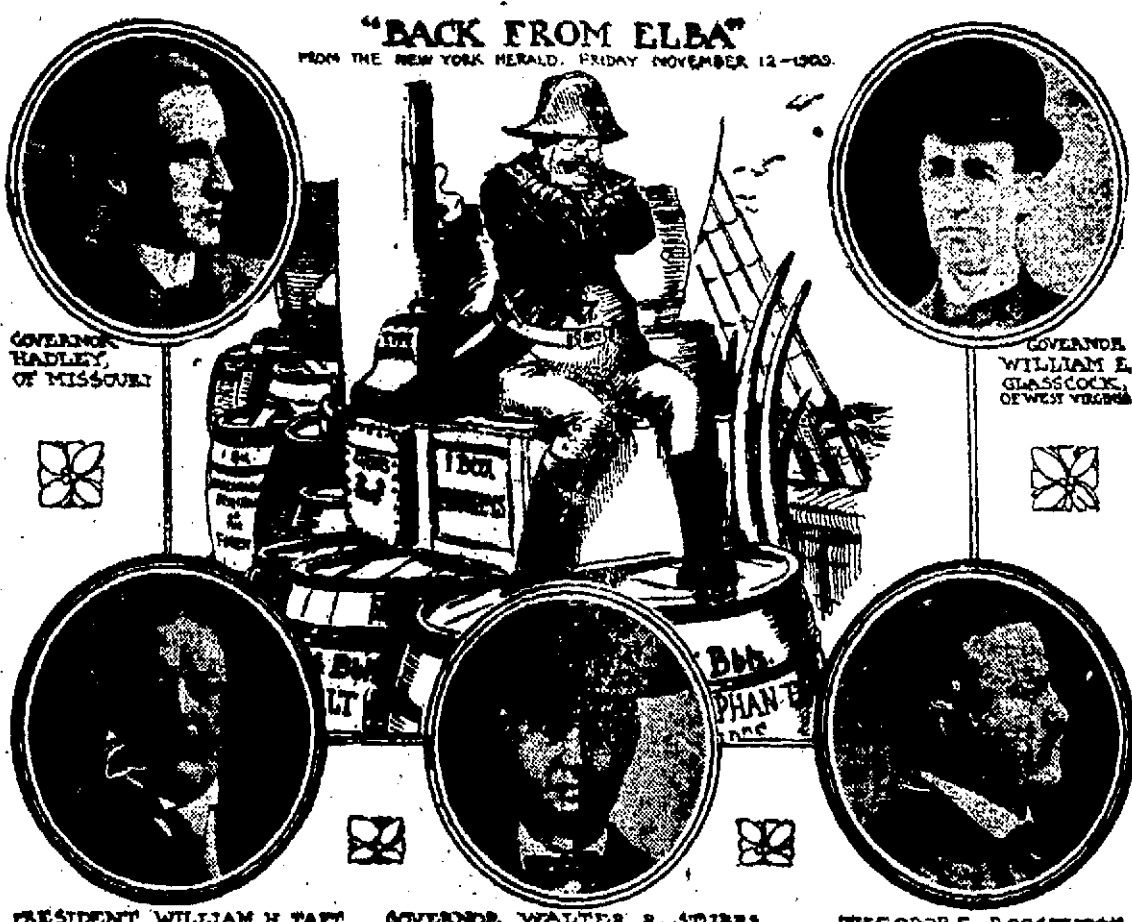

KILLED BY FALL ON THE ICE.

Marion, Ind., March 2.—James Simmons, aged sixty, a farmer, slipped on the ice and fell, breaking his neck. His body was found on the public highway near his home, three miles north of Switzville, today, by Ovid Wright. The coroner's investigation today failed to disclose evidence of foul play. One daughter, Mrs. Mary Bloomer, of Fairmount, survives.

WILL GO TO CALIFORNIA.

John G. Sterling, a prominent farmer of Marion township, is disposing of his personal farm property and will go to California.

ROOSEVELT CAMPAIGN ONE OF MOST ELABORATE EVER PLANNED

Theodore Roosevelt's declaration that he would accept a nomination is part of the original plan of the Back from Elba Club which was formed on March 5, 1906. It is one of the moves in the "big game" which was arranged before the erstwhile President made plans for his raid on "big game" in Africa.

The entire Roosevelt campaign is one of the most elaborately staged productions ever produced. Politicians were convinced that he would accept the nomination when his intimate friends declared that in stating he would not accept a third term Mr. Roosevelt meant a third consecutive term.

Governor Hadley, of Missouri, one of the Back from Elba group, made one of the first set moves when on January 23 he announced that he favored the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt. Governor Glasscock, of West Virginia, made the next one when, after a visit to Oyster Bay, he announced that he would be for Mr. Roosevelt. Then came Governor Stubbs, of Kansas, two days later, with a declaration that he also favored the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt.

CONGRESS WORKED UP BY PROPOSAL

Democratic Plans for Free Sugar and an Income Tax Causes Sensation Among the Statesmen.

Washington, March 2.—House and senate leaders of all shades of political belief gave themselves over today to a discussion of the sensational action of the house Democratic caucus last night in endorsing what is in effect an income tax on all net incomes, including salaries, above $5,000 a year.

"That the house will pass the measure by a party vote within the next ten days or two weeks was taken for granted. Discussion, therefore, turned largely on the reception the bill would get in the senate. Its fate there seems doubtful.

Income Tax Ahead of Sugar.

The plans of the house leaders had not been wholly disclosed today, but it was apparent that the bill to extend the excess tax law now relating to corporations so as to include co-partnerships and individuals was to be urged upon the house ahead of the bill to put sugar on the free list. The latter bill will, of course, share in the debate on the so-called income tax, for it was to make up the deficit of more than $50,000,000 to be lost in customs revenue on sugar that the new taxing measure was devised. The Democratic leaders want to be sure that the deficit will be provided for before the bill is removed. The new plan of the Democrats took by surprise. Many of them had not recovered sufficiently today to be willing to talk for publication.

Stormy Times Ahead.

Everybody agreed that the debates in the house and senate on so radical a change in the method of raising government revenues would be the stormiest of recent years. The constitutionality of the new plan, it was said, would be attacked by some representatives and senators, although the Democratic leaders in the house claim the measure has been so drawn as to comply with the supreme court decision upholding the corporation tax law. The decision, it was pointed out, held that the corporation tax was not a tax on a franchise, but on the privilege of doing business. The new bill holds that working for a salary is just as much a manner of doing business as investing money in an enterprise.

In the senate it is said that in all probability party alignments will be broken, although party leaders make no such concessions publicly.

Smoot's Opinion.

Senator Smoot, of Utah, a member of the senate finance committee which will deal with the bill, declared there was no possibility of the measure passing the senate.

"I do not believe," said he, "that any republican senator, regular or insurgent, or that many Democrats will stand for it."

KILLED BY FALL ON THE ICE.

Marion, Ind., March 2.—James Simmons, aged sixty, a farmer, slipped on the ice and fell, breaking his neck. His body was found on the public highway near his home, three miles north of Switzville, today, by Ovid Wright. The coroner's investigation today failed to disclose evidence of foul play. DUE TO REACH CITY TOMORROW

Alberta Claire, Girl from Wyoming, in Pony Ride Across Continent.

Miss Alberta Claire, "the Girl from Wyoming," who is crossing the continent riding her pony, "Bud," and accompanied only by her dog, "Mickie," is due to reach Fort Wayne tomorrow afternoon from the west. In the course of one of the most strenuous journeys ever undertaken by a young woman, Miss Claire has had a variety of trying experiences, but she is sticking pluckily to her task and hopes to complete the trip safely.

Miss Claire, who lives at Sheridan, Wyoming, started on the trip Sept. 19, 1910, first crossed the mountains to the Pacific coast, and from San Bernardino, Cal., started Sept. 15 last on the eastward journey across the Great American desert. It is said she is the first and only girl who has ever crossed the desert alone, and her trip thus far has led her through Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Arkansas, Missouri and Illinois into Indiana. In the trip through Illinois, during the blizzard a few weeks ago, Miss Claire was reported lost in the storm and considerable alarm was felt for her safety, but she fought her way through for days, when it was almost impossible to locate the roadways.

Referring to her kindly reception in California, Miss Claire says: "California people have called me 'their' girl ever since. It is a compliment I very much appreciate, but at present I must not let the mistake go. I'm from Wyoming, with all my heart, and I love every inch of the sage-brush state."

Miss Claire says she is now making the trip in leisurely fashion, resting somewhat after the unusually difficult portion of the trip, and she is planning to attend church in this city tomorrow evening. The Wyoming Chamber of Commerce is standing sponsor for Miss Claire's unique journey.

WILL SINK THE OLD MAINE.

Warship to Have Official Burial at Sea March 15.

Washington, March 2.—The official burial at sea of the old battleship Maine, originally scheduled for Monday next, has been postponed until March 15 on account of unexpected difficulty experienced in removing the coffin dam around the wreck. It is fully expected, however, that about March 15, which happens to fall on the sailor's unlucky Friday, the hulk will be towed out to sea from Havana harbor, escorted by the cruisers North Carolina and Birmingham, and sunk to the bottom with big naval honors.

WHY THE 'PHONE WAS SILENT.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 2.—A mysterious interruption in the telephone service in the office of the Vandalla master mechanic, which occurred only at night time, was traced to roosting pigeons in the attic. They roosted on a wire and their weight caused it to come near another wire, which they caught with their feet, thus establishing a short circuit.

BOYS FIND BANDITS' CAVE.

Hammond, Ind., March 2.—Two Indiana Harbor boys found a cave near the Indiana Harbor canal, which is believed to have been the rendezvous of bandits responsible for many hold-ups and robberies in Hammond and other cities of the Calumet region. The cave contained a stove, bed, furniture and all sorts of weapons. Nick Horvat, a foreigner, was in bed when the police raided the cave and was arrested, charged with being one of the bandits.

BEVERIDGE JOINS FORCES OF COLONEL ROOSEVELT

Former Indiana Senator Latest Big Acquisition--Senator Dixon Claims Everything.

Washington, March 2.—The acquisition of former Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, to the Roosevelt forces was announced today at the headquarters of the Roosevelt committee. Senator Dixon announced he would take charge of the campaign Monday.

"There is no question in any man's mind," he said, "that an overwhelming preponderance of the republican voters of the nation is for the nomination of Col. Roosevelt. They believe that if Roosevelt is nominated he will be triumphantly elected in November and they are fearful of a political calamity to the republican party should Mr. Taft be nominated. The republican party owes the nomination for president to no man."

"The only hope of the republicans who are against the nomination of Col. Roosevelt is to secure by the use of federal patronage in the south the control of delegates from skeptical political organizations in those states, and the suffocation of the real sentiment of the republican voters in certain northern states, in the matter of the election of delegates."

"I have not yet had time to investigate thoroughly conditions in the far eastern states, but detailed information from every congressional district in the great republican states of the Mississippi valley, like Ohio, Illinois and Michigan, gives every possible assurance of practically solid Roosevelt delegations from those states; while from the states lying west of the Mississippi with scarcely a single exception the Roosevelt sentiment is irresistible."

"I cannot believe there is any question as to the ultimate result at Chicago."

ROOSEVELT MAKES A DENIAL.

Oyster Bay, L. I., March 2.—A report reached Oyster Bay today to the effect that Colonel Roosevelt had assured two members of President Taft's cabinet that he would not accept the presidential nomination this year. Secretaries Stimson and Meyer, according to the story, were said to have received this understanding with Colonel Roosevelt.

"They never said so," said Colonel Roosevelt today. "They never said so because they could not."

Colonel Roosevelt dropped politics today and took a rest in preparation for the hard work which is before him. He hoped to spend most of the next fortnight at home with a few trips to New York. He took a long horse back ride today and put in a few hours at chopping trees which, next to riding, is his favorite form of exercise. Colonel Roosevelt said that no change had occurred in the political situation as far as he knew.

GAVE HIS WIFE A PENNY TO BUY A ROPE TO HANG SELF

Then John Goushar Walked Out and Left His Little Family Without Food or Clothing.

John Goushar gave his wife a penny three weeks ago, told her to buy a rope and hang herself and walked out of their home and left the woman and their two children without food or clothing.

He returned drunk early this morning and a few hours later he was behind the bars under an affidavit filed by Humane Officer Louis C. Schlandroff charging him with neglecting his children.

At the time of his return he had a bottle half filled with whisky and became so abusive to his wife that the neighbors telephoned to the humane officer to have him arrested, fearing that he would kill her and the other members of the family. He is a foreigner and has lived out on what was the old McKinnin farm for several months.

Babe of Four Months.

When he left his youngest child was four months old and when it became ill and was about to perish for want of proper food, fire and clothing the township trustee was appealed to and a physician was sent out to attend the little one.

Neighbors were enlisted in the cause and during the extreme cold weather they sent in supplies enough to keep the family from freezing and starving. The older of the children is five and at the time the trustee and humane officer visited the home it had on clothing that had been borrowed for the reason that he had abandoned her. The arrest was made by Patrolman Crawley, who maintained the report that the wife maintained a clean home that was as comfortable as might have been expected under the conditions.

During his absence Goushar did not write to his wife or tell her anything of his whereabouts and all the money she had at the time of his departure was the penny he gave her to buy the rope with.

While the husband and father was away the most severe weather of the winter was encountered by the little family, which lived in a house none too warm at best and great difficulty was experienced by the mother in preventing her little ones from freezing.

Goushar did not volunteer any information as to where he had spent his time and he was given little opportunity as he was arrested as soon as the officers found he was home. Mr. Schlandroff says the case is one of the most aggravated that has come under his attention.

BOARD WILL ASK FOR BOND ISSUE

No Law to Govern a Vote by the People on the Big Question.

REQUEST IS READY

Members of the park board decided at their regular meeting today to prepare and submit to the city council at its next meeting a formal request for a bond issue of $200,000 to purchase the river bank property for boulevard purposes and it will be handed in at the session of March 12.

There is little probability that an attempt will be made to obtain a vote on the proposition for the reason that there is no law governing an election of the kind and it would be difficult to obtain the sentiment of the people interested.

In the first place it would be possible for anybody so inclined to vote half a dozen times in as many voting places, as no penalty could be attached to repeating, and in the second place it would be out of the question to submit the proposition to only such people as are entitled by reason of having to pay the cost to vote.

There was little business before the board today and except for a general discussion of the campaign to be pushed through this summer no work was done by the members.

Work Is Not Completed.

As soon as the weather will permit Trippier & Sons, of Peru, will take the task of finishing the work at the Broadway track elevation which was stopped last fall by the cold.

All but $5,000 of the amount due for this job has been paid to the contractors and the balance will be turned over to them as soon as the job is complete. This was determined upon some time ago when part of the contract price was paid.

ON HIS WAY TO LIMA.

Major John C. Lochner, of Auburn, was in the city Friday afternoon on his way to Lima, Ohio, where last evening he delivered an address at a N. of P. convocation. Major Lochner is the district deputy for the knights and is also a prominent officer of the Indiana National Guard. In addition to these honors he is also a bustling newspaper man. His paper, the Auburn Bee, is a weekly publication that gives the news in a readable shape.

WAR ON SMOKE IS UNDER WAY

Chairman Guldin Names Sub-Committee to Begin Work.

PROGRESS IS MADE

The technical committee of the Civic Improvement association, headed by O. N. Guldin, as chairman, organized for its campaign against the smoke nuisance in Fort Wayne last night when sub-committees were named to study and report on various phases of the subject in order that action may be taken in a definite and systematic manner that will accomplish results. The various sub-committees named were as follows:

Committee to investigate relative cost value of available power plant fuels for Fort Wayne—Messrs. W. C. Kestler, chairman; S. E. Fleming, Fred J. Thieme, A. S. Bond and L. A. Centlivre.

Committee to investigate present practice in firing of stationary and locomotive boilers, with recommendations for increased efficiency and the elimination of smoke as a nuisance, also to investigate ordinances now enforced in other cities to prevent smoke—George W. Smith, C. R. Colney, C. A. Bortis, F. D. Baldwin, O. M. Foster.

Committee to investigate elementary and stationary devices to produce secondary combustion in boiler firing for the purpose of securing increased efficiency and the elimination of smoke, with recommendation as to size of boiler plants to which appliances are economically adapted—T. W. Stone, J. A. Frel, B. H. Danforth, H. E. Crane, K. M. Cressler.

Committee to investigate mechanical stokers and special permanent furnace construction with recommendation as to efficiency, giving due regard to cost of installation, operation and maintenance—E. A. Barnes, A. A. Bowers, E. S. Myers, John J. Muir, C. C. Wright.

Committee to compile for final recommendations reports of sub-committees A, B, C, D, and also to assign to these different sub-committees any special investigation work it may deem advisable—O. N. Guldin, T. W. Stone, E. A. Barnes, G. W. Smith and S. E. Fleming.

Mr. Stone was elected general secretary. Plans for the work of the committee were outlined by Mr. Guldin and received the approval of the membership, and the chairman indicated that he expected actual, definite results from the undertaking. Upon motion of A. S. Bond the chairman was empowered to make changes on the various sub-committees whenever he deemed it advisable. Speaking from the economical side of the question, F. J. Thieme declared his belief that the elimination of the smoke nuisance would not only be important in the matter of comfort and sanitation, but it would actually contribute to lowering the cost of living and greatly lessen the labors of the housewife.

Much interest has already been shown in the anti-smoke effort, and publicity has already done much to stir up an effort to lessen the volume of smoke. One instance of this is shown in the fact that C. R. Colney, road foreman of engines on the Pennsylvania lines, has addressed a letter to his firemen and engineers asking their co-operation and explaining that by the exercise of care and technical knowledge a large proportion of the total volume of smoke can be avoided. Mr. Stone's sub-committee will hold its first meeting next Tuesday evening and Mr. Barnes' sub-committee will meet on Friday evening, both at the Commercial club.

J. H. MEYER DIES VERY SUDDENLY

A Well Known Carpenter Passes Away Early in Morning.

WAS AILING A WEEK

John Henry Meyer, aged 57 years, a lifelong resident of Fort Wayne, died very suddenly this morning at four o'clock at the family residence, 411 Old

J. H. MEYER, Life-Long Resident of Fort Wayne, Who is Dead.

Fort Place. Death was due to paralysis of the heart. Mr. Meyer, who is a carpenter by trade, had been ailing during the past week, but had worked as usual, and Friday morning went to his work at the Weber hotel. He became ill during the morning and returned home at noon. He was up and around all afternoon, and about twelve o'clock at night his condition became worse, and a doctor was summoned. He grew steadily worse until the end came at four o'clock this morning.

The deceased was born in Fort Wayne May 10, 1854, and was educated in the public schools of the city. He was married twenty-eight years ago, and his widow and three children survive him. They are: Hubert, of Marysville, Cal.; Inez and Alfred, at home. One sister, Mrs. Emma Luhmann, of Fort Wayne, and one brother, Rev. E. R. C. Meyer, of Irontown, Ohio, also survive.

The deceased was a member of the Salem Reformed church, and of the Men's society of that church.

WILL INSTALL A NEW SAFEGUARD

Frequency Changer Set is Purchased for Traction Power Plant.

NEW TRACKAGE SOON

To further safeguard against the possibility of breaks that would put either its lighting or its railway power system out of commission, the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company has just purchased what is known as a frequency changer set to be installed in its Spy Run avenue power station.

The station at present is virtually two plants—one generating 60-cycle current used for lighting purposes and another producing 25-cycle current used as railway power. During the breaks in the railway power end of the station a few weeks ago, the company, with an abundance of lighting current capacity, found itself utterly helpless, because the lighting current could not be used for power, and for days both city and interurban service was affected, while current was borrowed from the power stations of other traction companies.

The frequency changer set now to be installed at an expense of some $15,000, will virtually tie the two plants together and make possible the transformation of the variety of current to the other as contingency may demand.

Special work for the tracks into the new interurban station site on West Main street will reach the city and be installed during the present month if weather conditions will permit. With this completed, the removal of the interurban station to its new temporary home will be a matter of but a short time. The traction company is planning three tracks from Main street to Pearl, crossing its station property between Webster and Ewing streets, with an additional track on Webster street later.

FORMAL OPENING NEXT SATURDAY

contract will be let very soon. The addition will be from plans by Architect C. R. Weatherhogg, who is the designer of the hotel and is to be financed by the issuing of some $60,000 worth of preferred stock in the hotel company.

Bank clearings in Fort Wayne this week reached the total of $1,302,802.89 as against $1,044,367.13 for last week and $1,292,893.10 for the corresponding week of last year. Balances are $269,688.30.

COST OF CARESS GREAT SURPRISE

Noonan Did Not Know It Was Assault to Hug Negro Woman.

CALLED HER "BABY" SHE SEEKS A DECREE

Frank Noonan thought it was a great joke to go into a negro eating house and caress Elmore McElroy although she objected to having her ebony face snuggled down to his, but when Judge Frank Munger in the city court today gave him $5 and costs and thirty days, the matter took on a more serious aspect.

His case was appealed to the circuit court and bond supplied by James Noonan, his father, but Adolph Schultz, who formerly served in the navy, and who swung on the colored woman's jaw hard enough to knock out one tooth, didn't have anybody to go to the front for him and he went over for forty-five days.

Noonan and his companion went into the eating house and when they attempted to take liberties with the woman an attempt was made to put them out and a fight resulted in which she was badly used up and was unable for a week to appear in court.

She testified that Noonan insisted on calling her "baby" and forced his attentions on her in spite of the fact that she warned him not to. He laughed as he testified but was brought up with a jerk when the judge passed sentence.

Cases on the Docket.

Henry Dauls, a German who can't talk English, sought shelter in a new house in Bloomingdale belonging to Jasper Waikel and was caught and held up at the point of a gun until the police arrived. Waikel said he had been stealing lumber, but there was little evidence to show this. He was held until Monday.

James Puckett, who robbed John Shaffer of a watch and some money several weeks ago, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of petit larceny and was sent over thirty days with a fine of $1 and costs.

Adolph Schlinker was fined $1 and costs for drunkenness and Charles Osborne and George Trautman were let go.

The case of wife desertion against Harry White was taken up this afternoon at an adjourned session.

A continuance until March 7 was granted to Charles Rieger, charged with stealing $15 from the Baltes hotel bar.

AMERICANS MUST REMAIN NEUTRAL

Cabinet Decides on Proclamation Upon Mexican Revolution.

SITUATION FORCES IT

Washington, March 2.—At a cabinet conference at the White house today, it was deemed expedient that President Taft issue a proclamation, urging citizens of the United States to comply strictly with the neutrality laws of the United States in all matters affecting Mexico. In effect the proclamation is a warning to Americans to stay out of Mexico at this time. A note will be sent to American Ambassador Wilson at the city of Mexico, directing him to watch conditions closely, and if the situation grows alarming to quit the country.

The real significance of the proclamation is said to be the official recognition of the fact that the insurrectionary movement in Mexico has attained to such proportions as to cause it to be regarded as fairly balancing power and influence with the Mexican government. For that reason its issue is likely to be regarded with strong disfavor in the city of Mexico.

No such proclamation was issued during the Mexican revolution, but it was regarded as necessary to promulgate it now because there was no one strong central figure as a directing head of the revolution whom the United States could hold responsible for the treatment of its citizens.

Instead there are a number of self-created revolutionary leaders who have very little regard for the amenities of international law.

EXTENDS POLICY LIMITS.

Important Action by Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association.

The board of directors of the Allen County Farmers' Mutual Insurance association took an important step today when it adopted a resolution extending the protection of its policies on farm implements and vehicles during their temporary removal either on or off the premises of the policy holder. Under the old form the insurance was valid only while the property was actually upon the farm of the owner. Insurance against death of live stock by lightning was also extended to cover the animals insured while they are at any point in Allen or adjoining counties. The new arrangement applies to all policies now in force as well as those hereafter written.

NOTED AUTHOR AND ARTIST.

Rudolf Cronau to Lecture at Emmaus Hall Monday Night.

No doubt all Germans of the city hall with delight the coming of Mr. Rudolf Cronau, German American historian, painter and lecturer, who will deliver a lecture at Emmaus hall Monday night, at 8 o'clock. Traveling as a representative for the "Gartenlaube," a well known German magazine, he visited the most important scenic regions of our country and made a thorough study of the North American Indian. Besides numerous articles on American life and country he published several works illustrated by his own paintings. Some of these are: "Von Vandalen zu Vandalenland," "Unter dem Sternbanner," and "Im Wilden Westen." His masterpiece containing the summary of his studies and observations of German American life is his book, "Drei Jahrhunderte Deutschen Lebens in America." For this work the author was awarded a price of $2,000 by the Chicago university.

The subject of Mr. R. Cronau's lecture next Monday night will be "Ancient Germany's Glory and Modern Germany's Greatness." The lecture will be accompanied by 200 colored stereoscopic slides. He will take his audience through the different periods of German history when the Teutons lived and wandered through the endless forests of Germania to the present day, showing Germany as one of the powers of the world. He will speak of the wonderfully literary and industrial achievements of German thought, mind and skill. No German American, he is a native of the old Fatherland or of this our beloved America ought to miss this opportunity to hear Mr. R. Cronau. The admission will be 25 cents.

It is rectangular and is cut in the old style and unusually deep. Its value is in the neighborhood of $20,000.

The Waste Brought About By Compromise With Crime

It has been suggested in one of the public prints that for some reason certain interests are opposed to any nomination for circuit judge. Hence my friends could not hope to go to the day. Let us put an end, once and for all time, to this idea of manipulation. It was possible, yes, sometimes probable, when we had delegate conventions, that such results were brought about; but under the new law all it requires is that the people of the county vote to nominate the candidate they desire and I am certain that everybody is going to the primaries this spring. The law provides that no improper methods shall be used to influence the voter. Under this law a square deal can be secured and must be given and the best judgment of every voter required. I am writing these letters with the intense idea in my mind that we can get an honest expression from every voter in the county.

True Economy.

I have mentioned that I managed a farm, changing it from a swamp and wilderness to one of the finest. To do this I most certainly learned to realize the real size of a dollar, and to know how much effort must be put forth to gather together the money necessary to pay taxes and assessments. Because of that, I suggest that whenever a public official pays out money gathered in taxes, he should remember that much of it comes from those who not only give up pleasures, but many, the very necessities of life, that they may contribute their share towards public expenses.

Keeping that thought in mind, I think our courts should, first, be concerned in seeing that justice is done and no compromise made with crime. To compromise with crime most certainly betrays the commission of many criminal offenses, instead of few, if the certainty of punishment, however small, were to be known to follow the doing of a criminal act.

The Walker Case.

In my letter to you of February 24th, I called attention to the Walker case, as one that had been postponed from February till March, to suit the convenience of counsel, and made the observation that, by the time he was tried, the community would forget the crime and the salutary effect of a prompt conviction as a deterring influence, would be lost.

In reading your news items, I see that when no one was in, Walker came into court, plead guilty, was sentenced to prison for life for murder in the second degree. You even seemed to be willing that he should be given a good character for honesty and partially prepared for parole or pardon. The prosecutor is credited with saying that his conviction was as certain as the Me-Naras, and I think the prosecutor is right in that, but when it is suggested that $1,500 was saved to the county by the compromise, I have no doubt as to the effect such admission will have upon the criminal classes of the community. They will be more inclined to commit crime, when they think they can surely get a compromise verdict.

We cannot pry into the future and see who will be the next one, but we can go back, and will not be compelled to go very far, until we find another compromise sentence in a case where a man, crazed with drink, shot his hard working, and we are told, most worthy, but unfortunate wife, at her work, trying to earn the livelihood he should have brought in the home, but failed to do, because of his great fondness for that which stealth away the brain and robs the wife and family of love and support. It was not stated how much the county saved by this compromise, and the question, whether right living and peace and order were advanced, was not asked.

Then we might go back a little further to find another compromise. The life of a little child went out, and on a plea of guilty to recklessly running an automobile, a sentence not greater than the admitted guilt was pronounced, a heavy fine inflicted, then a total suspension of the sentence was granted. The fine was paid, without inconvenience, as well as $5,000 to the parents. Undoubtedly the county saved money, but let us ask, where did the state come in? What regard was paid to the public and its rights to security and orderly conduct?

No one favors mercy and is willing to give good will and proper assistance to the criminal classes, more than I, but let us have justice first, and then let the healing balm of mercy and forgiveness be applied, when confession of wrong is made and repentance and reformation is at least desired.

Again, let us say that the money saved by compromise of criminal cases is lost many times, in the expense of controlling future misconduct of those criminally inclined. I now serve notice on the next sheriff that the bills for hoarding prisoners and detained witnesses will decrease after the last of next January. Let us have an efficient court; let the law breaker realize that certain conviction is to follow his offense and there will be less laws broken and fewer cases tried.

Collier's Weekly, after seriously investigating how justice is defeated by the law's delays, closes the report by this statement, which I most fully concur in:

"I believe that the judges and the judges alone, and unaided, could do away with three-fifths, if not four-fifths, of these delays. Now, whenever the community at large awoke to the fact that the law's delays are due to the failure of judges expeditiously to administer justice, reform will come promptly, and this without any constitutional amendment or change of laws."

Yours truly,

T. E. ELLISON.

$50.00 IN GOLD

You Can Earn a Twenty Dollar Gold Piece

BY WRITING AN ADVERTISEMENT

The following prizes are offered for the best advertisements of the Wildwood Builders' plan for building homes:

First Prize . . .	$20.00 in Gold	Fourth Prize . . .	$2.50 in Gold
Second Prize . . .	$10.00 " "	Fifth Prize . . .	$2.50 " "
Third Prize . . .	$ 5.00 " "	Next Ten . . .	$1.00 Each

The Purpose of this contest is to learn from the public what features in the "Wildwood Way" of home building are most attractive. We are so close to our proposition that we may overlook the best points concerning our plan. The people who are now paying rent and would like to own homes of their own know better than anyone else what feature would make the strongest appeal to them and we are making this offer to acquire these ideas.

This competition is open to every reader of this paper above 18 years of age. When you send in your advertisement do not place your name on it, but put your name and address in a separate sealed envelope and enclose it with your ad. When these ads. are received in our office each one will be stamped with a number. The same number will be marked on the envelope, which will then be placed in the safe, not to be taken out until it has been decided which advertisements are best. Mr. R. W. Smith, Mr. C. H. Davies and Mr. C. D. Wheeler, advertising managers for the Wayne Knitting Mills, S. F. Bowser & Co. and Fort Wayne Electric Works, respectively, will form a committee of three to select the fifteen best advertisements.

The five best advertisements will be run one each day in consecutive issues of the daily papers. On the sixth day all five of them will be repeated and the public will have a chance to vote on those which are best. The first five prizes will be awarded according to the result of these votes.

Each ad. must be limited to 300 words, and must be received in our office before 9 o'clock Monday morning, March 11th.

Don't think you will have to compose a literary masterpiece to win a prize. We want plain logical reasons why a man should own his home and why he can buy a better one for less money through the Wildwood Builders than by any other method. If you are not familiar with our plan, watch our ads. in the following issues of this paper. You can get new ideas every day, as each ad. will present the proposition from a different viewpoint. Put these arguments in your own language and you may win one of the prizes.

IN CASE OF A TIE VOTE, THE PRIZE WILL BE EQUALLY DIVIDED BETWEEN THE CONTESTANTS.

These gold pieces are on display in Bruder's window and will be given without strings or obligations attached to them to the fifteen persons who are successful in writing the best advertisements.

HAS LOCAL TAFT FORCES GUESSING

Real Strength of Roosevelt Movement is a Big Surprise.

CAUSES MUCH ALARM

That the crystallization of the Roosevelt sentiment among republicans of the Twelfth district is giving the off-line party leaders here no end of alarm will be freely admitted by most of them when one gets down to a confidential basis. Most of them are advocates of President Taft, principally in pursuance of their determination to remain "regular" at any cost, and a good many of them as a matter of personal fact prefer Mr. Roosevelt. But they will not climb into his band-wagon until it is definitely established that it is going to be the colonel's hand-wagon that leads the procession. Then there is that other faction who decri Mr. Roosevelt's "progressive" ideas and insist that Mr. Taft is safest because he is likely under no circumstances to rock the boat. Altogether, the activity of the Roosevelt supporters of the district is giving the party organization here some sleepless nights.

And, privately, they will tell you only that they do not know where thing is going to end. The gathering

THE DANDRUFF GERM

And the Guinea Pig.

When Drs. Lesser and Bishop made a pomade by mixing scales of dandruff and vasoline, which they afterwards rubbed on a guinea pig, they were contributing to science more than they knew. The application of the salve caused the pig to lose its hair and become bald. This was merely one of the preliminary steps which made possible the discovery of Newbro's Herpicide. After establishing beyond question the existence of the dandruff germ, a remedy was needed to kill this parasite. There was nothing which would do this until Newbro's Herpicide was placed upon the market. Being the first recognized remedy for dandruff, it has long been called the "original remedy." Herpicide kills the germ, prevents falling hair and stops itching of the scalp. Don't take a substitute; you can always get the genuine article. Herpicide is for sale at drug stores. Applications may be obtained at good barber shops. One dollar size bottles are guaranteed. Send 10c in postage or silver for sample and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich. ing in this city Friday afternoon of Roosevelt republicans who came at the invitation of former State Chairman Edwin M. Lee was both a surprise and a shock to the "regular" crowd. They were discounting the meeting in advance with the declaration that it would bring together but a mere handful of "sorehead" republicans, and that it would cut no figure whatever in the general result hereabouts. As a matter of fact it was a big gathering of its kind—a conference of more than half a hundred of the rank and file of republican voters of the district who declared that there were thousands more of the same sort in the six counties of the district who know what they want and propose to get it.

That it means fight from start to finish is apparent from the temper of the Roosevelt followers and the apparently dogged determination of Mr. Taft's followers to adhere to what they term the "safe and sane" policy and party traditions by which they declare the president is entitled to a renomination. But some of the Taft adherents already have a suspicion that they are beaten in the Twelfth district. There were fairly complete reports at the Roosevelt conference Friday from every county in the district save Noble, and they were uniform in the declaration that beyond all question an overwhelming majority of the republican voters were for Mr. Roosevelt, and that they were determined that delegates instructed for him should be sent to the Chicago convention from the Twelfth district.

Mr. Willenar, of Auburn, who has been mentioned as a candidate for one of those delegations, but who doesn't want to go to Chicago under instructions, happened to be in the city and casually dropped into the Roosevelt meeting. He was called upon to speak and did so briefly, making a plea for party unity and urging that it is the part of party wisdom to leave the delegates free to exercise their judgment as contingencies develop in the convention. That started something. David Beard, of Allen county, was on his feet in an instant and made it perfectly clear that the Roosevelt men did not propose to vote for any man as delegate without knowing exactly what he is going to do if he is elected. Mr. Beard asserted that practically none of the republican farmers will vote for President Taft, and that Roosevelt was the only man who could carry the party to victory.

Similar sentiments were expressed by other delegates from the country precincts, and the sentiment for a determined fight for the delegates grew stronger every moment. E. V. Harris, who admitted that he had once been known as an enthusiast in politics, got the floor and made an address with moderation as its keynote. He admitted his opposition to President Taft, but pointed to the absence of most of the party wheel-horses with whom he had worked in the past and declared that their support was needed and that they ought not be needlessly antagonized. C. S. Bask spoke along similar lines, asserting that while Mr. Roosevelt is his first choice, he is for the republican party and its policies first, and that if the nomination should go to President Taft he proposes to be in a position to go out and stump the county for his re-election.

The motion to refuse to vote for any delegate who was not avowedly a Roosevelt man, submitted by Mr. Beard, prevailed, and Mr. Harris had suggested the name of Hon. J. N. Babcock, of Topeka, as the man to lead the organization of the Roosevelt forces in the district. Then Mr. Babcock himself jumped into the breach, and it was only by an adroit suggestion that he headed off his election as Roosevelt district chairman on the spot. Mr. Babcock made an impassioned address. He declared the sentiment over the district to be overwhelmingly for Roosevelt, and cited several townships in Lagrange county to support his contention, going to the length of asserting that in some of them there is scarcely a Taft republican left. More than this, he declared that a good part of the Lagrange county organization is at heart for Mr. Roosevelt.

But Mr. Babcock protested against hurried action at this time. He declared that the call for the gathering had not been general; that hundreds of Roosevelt republicans over the district had not been made aware of it and were not given a chance to participate, or the attendance at the meeting would have been doubled many times. He advised that an opportunity be given the Roosevelt forces in each precinct to organize and send delegates to another meeting before the attempt was made to form a district organization. Mr. Babcock's suggestion was supported by several other delegates, and the outcome was the resolution for the district gathering in this city next Friday to select a district chairman. The convention will be held in the court house assembly room, and by that time it is predicted that an active Roosevelt organization will have been perfected in every county in the district. Frank J. Doudican, Mr. Lee's personal representative, who was in attendance at the meeting, declared himself highly pleased with the activity and the enthusiasm manifested by the Roosevelt forces in the Twelfth district.

Local Taft men were much surprised and somewhat amused when they read in the press that Mr. Lee was criticizing Taft men in federal employ for what Mr. Cleveland called "pernicious activity." They recalled that just before Mr. Beveridge arrived home from Europe before Mr. Lee made his "prestidigitations" change of heart, metamorphosing his affections from Taft to Roosevelt, he, Lee, held a meeting in the office of the revenue collector in this city. It was attended by a large number of workers in the republican ranks and Mr. Lee was then a warm advocate of Taft. He was, it is said, counselling federal employees as well as others to support the president, saying that the party must stand by its colors and the administration. According to Mr. Lee's present attitude it was a serious offense, but the presiding genius of that meeting was Mr. Lee.

The new metal, which has been quite properly named Canadium, was first found in an igneous dike occurring in the Granite Poorman gold mine near Nelson, P. C., and has since been found in many other dikes of the same character throughout a zone of some fifteen miles wide. These dikes extend several miles without a break, and in many cases show very fair assays, running from a few pennyweights to three or four ounces of platinum metals per ton. In some of the dikes Canadium is in the great proportion, but not always, although it is generally present with the platinum.

The planning of the new capital of India at Delhi, states the Contract Journal, is exercising many minds. The native princes and rulers of contiguous states are already moving in the matter, and many palatial schemes are in the air, for which the talents of architects, builders and furnishers of all kinds will be called into requisition. The sanitation, lighting, traffic facilities and all the requirements of an ever-growing large town should provide business for many years to come, and to our industrialists we would give the ancient advice: Carpe diem, be first in the field if you can.

IN THE CITY'S CHURCHES

"CREATION" TOMORROW NIGHT.

Selections From Big Oratorio at First Presbyterian Church.

At the 7:30 service tomorrow at the First Presbyterian church will be given selections from Haydn's oratorio, "The Creation." Members of the church, the occasional attendant and music lovers of the city generally have been looking forward to this treat for some time, as it had been postponed from last Sunday. Particular care has been taken to select the most popular numbers for presentation, tomorrow night, and the program, as arranged, will be as delightful as has been given at the First church this season.

Those who compose the double quartet which will give this work are: Miss Agnes Stemen and Mrs. H. H. Rogers, sopranos; Miss Margaret Spencer and Mrs. Hugh Keegan, contraltos; Messrs. Earl Ehrhart and E. F. Yarnelle, tenors, and Messrs. D. Ferd Urbahn and Charles Lang, basses. The organ prelude, "Representation of Chaos," played by Mr. Archer, is particularly picturesque.

The following are the numbers selected:

Recitation and Aria—"Rolling in the Foaming Billows"..... Mr. Urbahn
Recitation and Aria—"With Verdure Clad"..... Miss Stemen
Chorus—"The Heavens Are Telling"
Recitation and Aria—"O Native Worth"..... Mr. Ehrhart

Duet—"O Day of Rest and Gladness"
Postlude—Theme..... Mendelssohn
All persons are invited to both services. An urgent invitation is extended to men, as the First Presbyterian church prides itself on being "a man's kind of church." It is a peculiar fact that men are always in the majority at the evening services of the First church.

ARE FORGIVEN BY TELEPHONE

Eloping Lovers Make Use of Wire to Break the News.

TELL FOND PARENTS

Boston, Feb. 28.—A pretty romance in which a kind telephone operator did her best to help pop the question, came to light recently when Boston and Plymouth county society folk learned of the elopement and marriage of Dolly Bicknell Arnold, of North Abington and Colebrook, N. H., and Benjamin W. Atwood, a Boston automobile man. The facts came by way of the parents of the couple following the news they got over the telephone that "Dolly and Ben had gone and got married."

The couple were married in Brockton, Rev. Dr. A. Marion Hyde officiating. They met in Boston; the bride coming from Colebrook, where she had been teaching school. First they called up former Representative Wallace P. W. Arnold, of North Abington, shoe manufacturer and father of the eloping girl.

Announced by Telephone.
"Father, Ben and I are married," announced the daughter's voice over the wire.

Then they phoned Bertram W. Atwood, box manufacturer, of Pleasant street, Whitman.

"In," came the son's sweet voice, "just called you to tell you that Dolly and I got married today."

The parents were naturally surprised, but said they had operators for the new son-in-law and daughter-in-law.

The elopement was the immediate result of a telephone talk young Atwood tried to have with his sweetheart just before leap year came. He put in a call from his Boston office for Colebrook. He answered the long-a-ling-ling that came later.

"Hello, is that you, Dolly?"
She—"Hello, speak a little louder, please. I can't understand."

"Dolly, Dolly, can't you hear? I want you to marry me!"

She—"Louder, for I can't seem to understand!"

It was here the telephone operator at Colebrook ventured to deliver young Atwood's message for him.

The operator did, and came back with the word over the line to the Back Bay that there was no answer.

Off for Colebrook.
Atwood immediately got busy with a special delivery letter, in which he proposed in writing. He got an answer. What it was, he hasn't told his friends, but he took the next train for Colebrook.

A week ago Miss Arnold gave up her school, joined her sweetheart in Boston and took a train for Brockton.

The bride is a graduate of the Weston school, of Boston, and went to Colebrook to teach last September. She is nineteen years of age, pretty and accomplished.

Atwood, whose father is one of the wealthiest residents of Whitman, is twenty-three years old. Returning from their honeymoon, they will reside in Whitman.

IN FORT WAYNE NEAR 80 YEARS

Mrs. Mary King Jenkins Made Trip to Hoosierdom from Maine Entirely by Water—Interesting and Vivacious Woman of Almost 90 Who Had Part in Early Social History of This City.

MRS. MARY KING JENKINS

It is not probable that many women in this part of the country can relate that they came from so far "down east" as the state of Maine to Indiana to live long enough ago to have made the trip by water. Mrs. Mary King Jenkins, mother of Mrs. William L. Carnahan and Oliver S. Hanna, of this city, is one who did just that thing. Mrs. Jenkins came to Fort Wayne in the early '30's of the last century, when she was but eleven years old, from Kennebunkport, Maine. Her mother died when her two daughters, Mary and Sarah, were very young, and at the time Capt. Oliver Fairfield, Mrs. Jenkins' father, decided to come to Indiana to live, he had just married Capt. Oliver Fairfield, wife and daughters and his brother, Asa Fairfield, and his family. They made the trip of some twelve to fifteen hundred miles on the ocean from Kennebunkport to New York; thence by boat on the Hudson river to Albany, where they took the Erie canal to Buffalo, a change in the route then came by way of the fresh water, Lake Erie, over which the winds blew none too mildly, so the travelers were glad to reach Toledo, Ohio. From that point traveling became even more difficult, and by means of a private her at that time. She was descended from two prominent families of the Pine Tree state, the Kings and Fairfields. Each of those families furnished a governor to this state. Members of the King family were leaders in affairs of state and some of them won national reputation as statesmen. The Hon. Rufus King was appointed by President Washington as ambassador to England; he was sent on the same mission by President Adams, and retained in position by Jefferson. For years members of this family were prominent in political affairs and two descendants, George C. Perkins, United States senator from California, and the novelist and military hero, Gen. Charles King, are present-day men of importance.

When Mrs. Jenkins (Mary King Fairfield) was nineteen years old she married James Bayless Hanna, eldest son of Judge Samuel Hanna. The young couple went to housekeeping in the old home of Judge Hanna, then on the northwest corner of Barr and Berry streets, and lived there until their own home was built in East Wayne street, where Mrs. Jenkins is passing the declining years of her life with her daughter, Mrs. Carnahan. Two other children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Hanna besides the daughter named—Oliver S. Hanna, of this city, and J. Thomas Hanna, who died several years ago. There are nine grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren in the family.

After the death of her first husband in 1851, Mrs. Jenkins remained a widow for eight years. She then married Barnett Jenkins, of Lafayette. His death occurred in 1857 and shortly afterwards Mrs. Jenkins returned to her early home in this city, where she has since lived. She is interesting and bright and until recent months bore her years remarkably well. A strong constitution has enabled her to withstand several sicknesses of late years, and though feeble and in her eighty-ninth year, Mrs. Jenkins is able in pleasant weather to go short distances alone and enjoys calling on old friends. Always hospitable and merry-hearted, Mrs. Jenkins loves company.

She dearly likes to talk of the happy days of her girlhood and tells with many a hearty laugh of things that happened. She has always enjoyed traveling. In her girlhood there were two important trips that she remembers well. One was to Indianapolis on horseback, the trip consuming three days each way, and the other to Cincinnati by carriage. During the latter visit Mrs. Jenkins had the honor of meeting a famous woman, Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe. In later years the subject of this sketch has continued her love of travel as often as opportunity afforded and has been to the western coast as well as to many other parts of the country. But though enjoying travel Mrs. Jenkins also dearly loved to entertain. In the early years of her wedded life her home was one in which the young people loved to gather, for Mr. Hanna loved company as well as his wife, and in those early days there was not much going on socially that Mr. and Mrs. Hanna did not attend. It is a pleasant characteristic of Mrs. Jenkins that she recalls mostly the happy things only of her life. Her laugh has always been a merry one, yet her sympathies are quick and her hand has ever been ready to do for others when she could.

WITH THE STUDY CLUBS

WILL VISIT SOUTH WHITLEY.

Federation Officers of this City to Make Addresses on Club Work. A number of ladies of the Woman's league will visit in South Whitley in the early part of this month to interest club women there in state federation work. The South Whitley News says: "Mrs. Edward Wilson, of Fort Wayne, chairman of the Twelfth district of the State Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Elizabeth Dawson, of Fort Wayne, general chairman of the state federation, and Mrs. Laura Souders, of Columbus City, chairman of the federated clubs of the county, will come to South Whitley Friday, March 8, at the invitation of the Fine Arts club, of South Whitley, whose guests they will be during the day. Mrs. Judson West and Mrs. J. M. Richer will entertain the members of the Fine Arts club in their honor at a 1 o'clock luncheon on that day. Later in the afternoon the members of the Mothers club have been invited to meet with the Fine Arts club. At this meeting the federation officers will address the club women upon the state club work."

Each sack of "Puritan" Flour contains a valuable coupon. 2-24-1-1-6-11 FOR THE EVENING. Evening shoes are much simpler in style than hitherto. Matching the dress exactly in tone, and very often of the same fabric, the evening shoe of the present season has very little ornamentation. A buckle of cut steel, a touch of hand embroidery, a few strands of beads or sequins or a bordering line of fur the narrowest possible width—these are the main features of the trimming scheme. Made with very short or very long fronts, the evening shoes have moderate heels. Some of the long fronted designs come up to the ankles, and a favorite idea is to have the trimming placed at the side in Pompadour fashion. Rosettes of ribbon on flowered brocade are to be seen on shoes of this kind, as well as on shoes for the boudoir.

Stain is the reigning favorite in fabrics for evening shoes, but some very dainty designs are carried out in velvet or brocade, with touches of metallic thread embroidery.

Talks on Keeping the Skin Beautiful

It always amuses me when I am asked to give my ideas as to how beauty of any sort can be retained by or imparted to me or any other woman. Every woman expects some wonderful secret formula and the whole thing is so mysterious after all. Just breathe deeply of good, fresh, pure air, eat simple food and only a small quantity and exercise early and often in the day. Above all things keep clean and by doing so your eyes will be brighter, your skin whiter and your color high. No small part of the beauty and cleanliness of my skin is due to the fact that I use the Melorose preparations in all my toilet rites.

The Melorose Cream is a particular favorite of mine and many a frown over a poor rehearsal or an incipient crowsfoot from too much laughing has been massaged from my face by that same delightfully scented and all-healing cream.

My maid has a clever little trick of giving me an all-over-the-body rub with Melorose Cream when I am out of sorts or more than usually tired and the result is almost sybaritic in its intense luxury and glorious feeling of ease and lassitude.

The Melorose Powder is by all odds the daintiest, most refined complexion beautifier imaginable and has a particularly soothing action on my skin. It has a clinging, evanescent odor of faintest rose that just barely suggests the flower whose name it bears and used over a very light coating of the cream it tends to keep off not only sunburn, but also the tan and other dire effects of chilly breezes.

You see, I am a real "out-of-doors" girl and walk in all sorts of weather, on every opportunity that I have, and my skin is entirely free from any sort of blemish and the reason is because I use these Melorose toilet articles.

The Melorose Rouge is, I think, the most natural I have ever used and would deceive any one, and besides I find it is absolutely harmless to the texture of the skin.

I am often complimented upon and, perhaps, am rather proud of the beauty of my hands and two of my most important maniere indispensables are a tiny jar of Melorose Nail Polish and a block of the Melorose Nail Lustre. The two occupy little space, weigh comparatively nothing and serve to keep my nails always in a perfect condition, with a polish that is simply perfect in its quiet elegance.

CELEBRATES NATAL ANNIVERSARY.

Mrs. B. W. Vesey, for Seventy Years Resident of Indiana, Given a Surprise by a Company of Old Friends—An Early Day Wedding Journey

MRS. B. W. VESEY.

Sitting quietly at her home on Thompson avenue, on Monday afternoon of this week, Mrs. B. W. Vesey was much astonished as she glanced out of the window attracted by the sound of laughing voices, to see a company of her friends walking up to the house. It took but a few minutes to make the matter understood as the guests entered and extended their congratulations to Mrs. Vesey for having reached the seventy-sixth anniversary of her birth, looking fully ten years younger and as brisk and cheerful as if the years had passed without any storms whatever. Miss Margaret Vesey was responsible for the surprise on her grandmother, as the old friends who had gathered in response to Miss Vesey's invitation got out their sewing and crocheting and began to visit all at once, she slipped out to the dining room, and began arranging tables for serving the various courses of a bountiful birthday feast. The room was fragrant with pink roses and the table in the center of the room had many roses and candles on it. The company was seated at small tables for the supper, and at each plate lay pretty place cards and bouquets of pink sweet peas. Pink candles also decorated each table and there was an abundance of flowers in all the rooms. Everyone had a delightful time. The invited guests were Mrs. James Wilding, Mrs. George Crane, Miss Emma Jenkinson, Miss Ellen Spencer, Mrs. Lillian Underhill, Mrs. Daniel Bieber, Miss Mary Morris, Mrs. Frances H. Robertson, Mrs. Alex Wilson, Dr. Carrie Banning, Mrs. John Vesey, Mrs. E. C. Smith, Mrs. Allen J. Vesey, Mrs. Dick Vesey, Mrs. S. B. Hartman, Mrs. D. F. Harding, Mrs. Will Vesey, Jr., Mrs. J. H. Bilderbach, Mrs. Vesey was Catherine Waterhouse before her marriage and her birthplace was Portland, Me. When her parents came to Indiana Mrs. Vesey was but six years old. Although Mr. and Mrs. Waterhouse settled in Greencastle, they passed through Fort Wayne to get there and Mrs. Vesey recalls how her parents declared they were so glad they were not to settle in such a mudhole as Fort Wayne then appeared to be. In Greencastle Mrs. Vesey met her husband who came there to attend Asbury university, after his return from the California gold fields, for Mr. Vesey was a "forty-niner."

Soon after Mr. Vesey's graduation from the university of which Mrs. Vesey's father was one of the founders, the young couple were married at the bride's sister's home as her parents at that time were not living. Then came the wedding journey to Sturgis, Mich., where the first few years of married life were spent. But one railroad had been built in Indiana at that time and Mr. and Mrs. Vesey traveled by coach to Indianapolis, by railroad from that city to Madison where they took a boat for Toledo, O., where they were able to reach another railroad that took them to Sturgis or its vicinity. But Indiana proved an attraction and a few years later found the Vesey family living in Lagrange county, this state, which was their home for many years. There the five sons born to Mr. and Mrs. Vesey grew to manhood. Of the sons there are three living, Judge William J. Vesey and John H. Vesey, also of this city. Mrs. Vesey's family also includes eight grandchildren.

If the flour you have been using is not quite satisfactory, try the "Puritan."

Miss Catherine Vesey gave a small dinner party of very pretty appointments last evening. The guests were Misses Naomi Dugan, Rebecca Quinn and Margaret Burke, of Decatur, and Miss Helen Pickett, of this city.

RECIPES.

Thin Corn Bread.
Over a pint of fine yellow cornmeal pour just enough boiling water to moisten thoroughly, then cover and let stand, if possible, for half an hour. Add a scant teaspoonful of salt, two table-spoonfuls of melted butter or lard and three well beaten eggs. Beat in one cupful of flour, then add gradually as much sweet milk as is needed to give a thin drop batter. Beat hard, stir in two table-spoonfuls of baking powder and pour into shallow, well greased pans. Bake in a hot oven for fifteen to twenty-five minutes, according to thickness, remembering always that the thinner it is the better.

Jellied Appricots.

Soak a half pound of evaporated appricots over night in cold water, first washing thoroughly. Next day turn them into a double boiler and cook at the back of the fire until they are quite tender, and sugar to sweeten to taste and cook fifteen minutes longer. Carefully lift out the fruit and measure the syrup. For each cupful take a half table-spoonful of granulated gelatine, soak in just enough cold water to cover; when soft (this will take but a few moments) reheat the syrup, add the gelatine and stir until dissolved, then take at once from the fire. Divide the pieces of fruit among any number of individual molds and strain over them the syrup, then set aside to stiffen. Serve with milk or cream.

WASHINGTON IN A LIGHTER VEIN.

Officials in Washington are the recipients of many strange and usually amusing communications. Mr. Frank H. Hitchcock, the Postmaster General, is probably "flooded" in this respect more than any of the other higher officials. From Valhalla, quarters of the dog. The name does not call out the best there is in a man. President Taft comes in for his share of freak letters. The other day he received one containing a dollar bill. It was from a conscience stricken woman of Whitefish, Texas, who said that a few years ago she had successfully used a dollar's worth of canned postage stamps. Expressing the hope of meeting the President in heaven, the Texas woman said she remembered the Biblical injunction to make restitution fourfold and would send the remaining three dollars later. The letter and contents were referred to the Treasury Department, where the money was added to the famous "Conscience Fund."

HIS RESIDENCE IN AUBURN SPANS THE LIFE OF THE CITY

A. J. Ralston, Oldest Citizen in Point of Continuous Residence, Has Seen DeKalb's County Seat Grow from Hamlet to a Busy, Prosperous City and Has Been Prominent in Its Affairs.

Auburn, Ind., March 2.—The oldest citizen of Auburn, not in age but in continuous residence here, is A. J. Ralston, who has lived in DeKalb's county seat for over sixty-nine years, coming here when only seven families resided within the present limits of the city.

That was on December 12, 1842. Mr. Ralston was then three months over one year of age. He came here from Richmond county, Ohio, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Ralston, his father being for years one of the most prominent residents of the county and a leading merchant of the town.

Built First Court House.
The elder Ralston, who was a carpenter by trade, completed the building of DeKalb's first court house. The contractor to whom the building of the structure had been let threw up the job before it was finished and Mr. Ralston was employed to complete it. It was a two-story frame structure, 40x60 feet in dimensions, and stood in the center of the present court house square.

The court room occupied the whole of the lower floor. The sheriff's office was in the second story. The other county officials had offices in separate buildings on the same square. The office of the clerk and recorder, one officer performing the duties of both, was on the south-east corner, and the office of the treasurer on the northwest corner. These buildings were small frame structures.

Early Men of the Village.
At the time Mr. Ralston came here the following men with their families resided in the village: Wesley Park, the founder of Auburn; O. A. Parsons, T. J. Freeman, Jonathan Poffenberger, J. O. P. Sharlock, Lanslot Ingman and Nelson Payne.

Mr. Park was the first settler and Mr. Freeman and Mr. Payne the first merchants of the town. For a time after coming here the elder Ralston followed his trade, that of a carpenter, but soon after, in the early forties, was elected sheriff and served four terms. In 1850 he was elected county treasurer over Isaac Brandt, and in 1858 re-elected over O. C. Clark. Retiring from the mercantile business and followed it until 1880. His death occurred in March, 1891, at the age of 83 years.

Had Business Career.
A. J. Ralston, the son, was born at Plymouth, Richmond county, Ohio, on September 9, 1841. "Yes, it's Andrew Jackson," said Mr. Ralston smilingly, in reply to the reporter's assertion that that effect. "Father was an old line democrat, an admirer of 'Old Hickory,' and I have followed in his footsteps. I have always been a democrat."

Mr. Ralston availed himself of all the educational advantages Auburn offered in the early days of its history, attending the schools there. Among his teachers he remembers one of the first, J. R. Clark. As a lad he clerked in a general store and afterwards in a drug store. Later he was deputy sheriff under his father, continuing in that position under Sheriff J. N. Miller.

He was particularly efficient as an office man and served as deputy for County Treasurer Frank Ryan and County Auditor William McIntyre, the father of W. H. McIntyre, now one of the leading automobile manufacturers of Northern Indiana. Then he clerked in his father's general store until 1875, when he engaged in the grain business for himself, continuing it until 1882, when he went into the grocery business, retiring from it in the fall of 1896.

Since then he has lived a retired life, giving his attention to his property interests, and in a general way looking after his two farms, one of eighty and the other of 108 acres, both in this county. He resides in this city, his home being on the principal street of the city and only two squares from the business center.

Nearing Golden Wedding.
It was forty-eight years ago last Sunday that Mr. Ralston was married, the date being February 25, 1844. The bride of that day is the Mrs. Ralston of today, her maiden name being Hadesa J. George. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Mann, a Presbyterian minister who served the charges at Huntington and Auburn.

There were thirty guests at that wedding feast of forty-eight years ago, at the home of the bride's parents, prominent residents of the county. Among those guests yet living are the following: Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds, of Butler; Mrs. Vesta Swarts and Mrs. Mary A. McDonald, of Auburn; Mrs. Peter Sheaff, of New Era; Wesley I. Work and Mrs. Dr. Sturges, of Fort Wayne; Mrs. L. Z. Culbertson, of Cleveland, Tenn.; George C. Ralston, of Sulphur Springs, Ark.

The years that have passed since then have rested lightly on Mr. and Mrs. Ralston. Everybody in the city and county knows "Jack" Ralston, as he is universally called, and everybody esteems him. Mrs. Ralston is a cultured woman and prominent in the social and club circles of Auburn. The two sons, children are Mrs. Monte L. Green, of Auburn, whose husband is the managing editor of the Courier, and George M. Ralston, of Fort Wayne, employed in the Commercial bank.

Children of First Settlers.
In his reminiscent mood while speaking of early Auburn and his first settlers Mr. Ralston spoke of the living children of the men who were here when in 1842 he came to Auburn. Three of these first settlers, as has been mentioned, were Wesley Park, T. J. Freeman and J. O. P. Sharlock. Two of the sons of Mr. Park are now living in Kendallville, two in the children of Mr. Sharlock live in Auburn, and Mary M. Freeman, a daughter of Mr. Freeman, lives in Fort Wayne.

With mental faculties unimpaired and having a splendid memory, there isn't a better authority on old-time events than "Jack" Ralston. He knows the history of the town and county from personal knowledge. He has seen Auburn grow from hamlet to village and from town to city. He has been a continuous resident in it and throughout his life from early boyhood he has kept in touch with events as they have occurred. If a history of Auburn was to be written now the author of it would do well to stick pretty closely to Andrew Jackson Ralston, for the years he has been a resident almost span the life of Auburn.

ANTWERP NEWS.

Antwerp, O., March 2.—Capt. W. S. Ennis, of Paulding was an Antwerp visitor one day this week. Mr. Ennis is a prominent attorney of this county, and is an aspirant for the nomination for prosecuting attorney of the county.

The family have many friends here that are loath to have them leave, but wish them success in their new home.

A business change has taken place at Paulding, the county seat, this week, that has much interest in it for the people of this county. Local capitalists have purchased the interests held by E. G. Allen in the Paulding National bank and Charles H. Allen, who has been president of the institution for the past twenty-five years, resigns that position to join the Parker Woodrow Co., of Toledo, O., a million dollar concern, directly interested in the Toledo Sugar Co., now building one of the largest refineries in the world. The new men at the head of the Paulding National bank will be Hon. W. N. Shaffer, J. P. Shaffer, John C. Shaffer, Allen Bybee, G. C. Dittenhafer and others.

W. N. Shaffer will succeed Mr. Allen as president of the bank, while the latter will retain his stock in the institution and be one of the directors, and chairman of the finance committee.

There will be no change in the policy of the bank. The stock of Mr. E. G. Allen, purchased by the above named gentlemen, has fallen into good hands and the bank will maintain its high state of efficiency, stability and in every way care for the financial wants and needs of its large patronage with the same careful and conservative policy as in the past. The board of directors has been increased to nine members, constituted as follows: J. H. Harkness, W. N. Shaffer, J. H. Neely, J. P. Shaffer, W. H. Snook, John C. Shaffer, C. L. Straw, Allen Bybee and C. H. Allen. Paulding county in the removal of C. H. Allen loses one of its greatest boosters, as its interests have always appealed to him. W. N. Shaffer, J. P. Shaffer and John C. Shaffer are all former Antwerp citizens, having grown into manhood here, and their success in the world of human endeavor is gratifying to their many friends in the old home town.

This Home-Made Cough Syrup Will Surprise You

Stops Even Whooping Cough Quickly. A Family Supply at Small Cost.

Here is a home-made remedy that takes hold of a cough instantly, and will usually cure the most stubborn case in 24 hours. This recipe makes a pint—enough for a whole family. You couldn't buy as much or as good ready-made cough syrup for $2.50.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir 24 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. This keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste—children like it. Braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

You probably know the medical value of pine in treating asthma, bronchitis and other throat troubles, sore lungs, etc. There is nothing better. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in gualacal and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this inexpensive remedy have made friends for it in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you.

The remonstrance contained 700 names, and as 1,212 votes were cast in the township for secretary of state at the last election, consequently there will be no saloon at Auburn Junction for the next two years.

REAL BATTLE IN THIS BALL GAME

Jockel Has His St. Mary's Athletics Trained for a Hard Fight.

ALL IN FINE FETTLE

Unless all signs go to the bad, some time between now and tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock there will be a real battle staged at the Odeon hall in the Saengerbund building, on West Main street, when St. Mary's Athletic club basketball team meets the H. N. S. club, of South Bend.

The management will make an endeavor to start the games that are on the card promptly at the appointed hour and there will be no wails of the character that spoiled the last game played by the team when spectators spent half an hour wondering what was the matter. All the men will be on hand at the proper time for this fray.

Practice has been called at St. Mary's gym for this evening when the basketball coaches will be put on the preparation for the game. This has been going on nightly for the last ten days because there is real rivalry between the clubs.

For that matter there is always rivalry between the two teams that come together as representatives of Fort Wayne and South Bend, no matter what the game is.

This game is really the most important of the whole season to both teams. The visitors had much rather win from St. Mary's and lose every other contest of the season, than to defeat all opponents and be obliged to bow to the Fort Wayne squad.

The game is an annual affair and greatest as much interest among followers of the two teams as the Yale-Harvard football game does among students of the colleges.

Last year the Saints, trimmed H. N. S. 27 to 14 at the Odeon and later won 32 to 30 in a ten minutes overtime game at the Odeon at South Bend. After that overtime game last season several of the Benders were in tears and one in particular has refused to participate in a game since. This was little Currie, who is about as big as a minute, but who, nevertheless, could drop the ball through the basket from most any place, as the locals learned from experience. This star is not in the line-up this year for the two teams are expected to be among the visiting rooters.

A good bunch of rooters will come along with the team and the spectators are promised some excitement when the two rooting bands get under way. The Benders are determined to win St. Mary's are confident.

The two teams will lineup as follows:

South Bend. Position. St. Mary's.
Sodzikusky, L. P. Reed
Larkins, R. E. Hoffman
Dunbar, E. J. Jockel
Guthrie, R. G. Haffner
Guthrie, L. G. C. Beckler

HUMPHRIES SIGNS CONTRACT.

Will Play Second Base for the Canton Team This Season.

Canton, O., March 2.—Harley Humphries has signed his contract with the Canton club, and will no doubt cover second base the coming season. It is not likely that any of Greninger's youngsters will be able to wrest the position away from this class player. Humphries was one of the most valuable players in the O. & P. last season. He is dependable in the field and a dangerous stickler.

James Noble, a big right-hander, residing at Utica, O., and Henry Kotchka, a southpaw bailing from Tiltonsville, O., are the newest members of the local's hopeful squad. "Bill" Dithridge, "pooby" Quinn and "Heb" O'ford, old-time ball players of Zanesville, are recommended Noble, and Kotchka is a protégé of "Bill" Gallagher, who discovered Tommy Needham, Johnny Bates and other big league stars.

"Bill" Dithridge has Noble under his wing at Pekin, Ill., several seasons ago when "DH" was managing that club, but Noble's ambition to make good cost him a job then. Pekin, and Peoria played an exhibition game one cold spring day. Jacobson, later with Grand Rapids, and Noble were the opposing pitchers. Noble winged 'em across in great style, but was later troubled with a sore arm because of his anxiety to speed them across too strongly in the early spring. Pekin carried him a while, as Dithridge saw the promise in the youngster, but was forced finally to release him because the checking account in the Pekin bank got pretty low.

Noble pitched a couple of games for the Mansfield club in the O. P. league last year, but he and Manager Eddie Hahn couldn't agree. He is described as a six-footer and possessing a lot of speed, shooting, line-up and score.

Kotchka is a southpaw hurler, who pitched semi-pro ball at his home in Tiltonsville last year. Charles Dawson, the local "scout," has seen him work and predicts a successful future for him, and "Bill" Gallagher echoes the recommendation.

Field goals—K. Varnelle 1, Adams 2, Sauerberg 2, Miesner 1. Goals on free throws—K. Varnelle 1, Sauerberg 1, Miesner 2.

Try Sentinel Want Ads.

South Bend, Ind., March 2.—Pitcher E. J. Daly has notified Manager Harry Arndt, of the Greenstockings, that an injury to his arm, sustained in a basketball game, will necessitate a slight surgical operation and he will not be able to play before the middle of May.

This is a hard blow for the manager as he had counted on Daly for his pitching staff and he hoped he would report early and in good condition. Andrew Anderson, shortstop, has signed and sent in his contract.

Satisfied that he can easily develop a creditable outfield and infield from the material he has, Arndt fears for the batteries. An effective pitching staff and an experienced backstop are essentials which are proving to offer the greatest difficulties in building up the nine.

Wilder Madden's attitude is far from promising and it is possible he may not come to terms. With these two men, in the doubtful list it is small wonder the manager is worrying.

If Shortstop Anderson doesn't fill the bill at his position, it will be because he has a whirlwind in one of his recruits, according to Arndt, who knows the player's abilities from personal experience. Anderson was loaned to Wilkesbarre last year by the Syracuse New York State League, when the former club's regular shortstop, man was a hospital inmate. With Billy Clymer's pennant chasing club he hit 300.

When the regular Wilkesbarre infielder recovered, "Andy" was recalled by Syracuse, where a gang of pleasure seekers sought each day to finish the game with as little delay as possible, the result having no bearing on their plans. With the league's tailenders Anderson's hitting streak declined rapidly and at the end of the season showed a mark of .232. His fielding record showed him to rank in figures with leading shortstops.

As first baseman and captain of the Wilkesbarre club, Arndt saw Anderson in performance daily while he was with the team, and considers him a good consistent performer. He is about 30 years of age and has had lots of experience.

President Carson received the corrected draft of the Central league schedule from Robert Quinn, of Akron, O., its originator. The only changes made will affect Terre Haute, and utilization of a shift of dates was mailed to the Terre Haute management yesterday for ratification. It is possible the Terre-Hautes will not accept the schedule under the new conditions, but President Carson anticipates their consent to the change.

An answer is expected by Monday, so that the playing dates may be printed and distributed. They probably will hold for release for papers Saturday, March 3.

Shop league base ball affairs are a little unsettled on account of the announcement that J. V. Wilson, president, and D. W. Bolt, secretary, will not serve again this season.

Both have made most competent officials and as they have served entirely without compensation more credit is due them, as both have been forced to do a lot of work and spend a great deal of their time attending to the business of the organization.

The organization was carried through in good shape last season, but a meet-

ARNDT RECEIVES SOME BAD NEWS

Pitcher Daly Hurt Arm and Will Not Be Able to Report.

ANDERSON IS IN LINE

South Bend, Ind., March 2.—Pitcher E. J. Daly has notified Manager Harry Arndt, of the Greenstockings, that an injury to his arm, sustained in a basketball game, will necessitate a slight surgical operation and he will not be able to play before the middle of May.

This is a hard blow for the manager as he had counted on Daly for his pitching staff and he hoped he would report early and in good condition. Andrew Anderson, shortstop, has signed and sent in his contract.

Satisfied that he can easily develop a creditable outfield and infield from the material he has, Arndt fears for the batteries. An effective pitching staff and an experienced backstop are essentials which are proving to offer the greatest difficulties in building up the nine.

Wilder Madden's attitude is far from promising and it is possible he may not come to terms. With these two men, in the doubtful list it is small wonder the manager is worrying.

If Shortstop Anderson doesn't fill the bill at his position, it will be because he has a whirlwind in one of his recruits, according to Arndt, who knows the player's abilities from personal experience. Anderson was loaned to Wilkesbarre last year by the Syracuse New York State League, when the former club's regular shortstop, man was a hospital inmate. With Billy Clymer's pennant chasing club he hit 300.

The organization was carried through in good shape last season, but a meeting this week did not hold out much promise, although it is believed a good league will be established within the next few weeks.

Mr. Bolt did not want to serve as secretary last season and would readily have given up the job, but he was prevailed upon to continue in office on account of his excellent record of the year before.

Last season and the one that preceded it the shop league was responsible for some fine sport and the players will in all probability not permit it to fall through this year.

"Bill" Dithridge has Noble under his wing at Pekin, Ill., several seasons ago when "DH" was managing that club, but Noble's ambition to make good cost him a job then. Pekin, and Peoria played an exhibition game one cold spring day. Jacobson, later with Grand Rapids, and Noble were the opposing pitchers. Noble winged 'em across in great style, but was later troubled with a sore arm because of his anxiety to speed them across too strongly in the early spring. Pekin carried him a while, as Dithridge saw the promise in the youngster, but was forced finally to release him because the checking account in the Pekin bank got pretty low.

Noble pitched a couple of games for the Mansfield club in the O. P. league last year, but he and Manager Eddie Hahn couldn't agree. He is described as a six-footer and possessing a lot of speed, shooting, line-up and score.

Kotchka is a southpaw hurler, who pitched semi-pro ball at his home in Tiltonsville last year. Charles Dawson, the local "scout," has seen him work and predicts a successful future for him, and "Bill" Gallagher echoes the recommendation.

South Bend, Ind., March 2.—All doubt has been dispelled about Jack Pendry and his plans for the season of 1912 as his contract arrived at Potter headquarters yesterday and is in the strong box along with that of Claude Ragsdale, catcher who finished with the club last season and who made a club showing.

Ragsdale got a great start with the Buffalo club last spring and when he was shipped to the Mountain State league later in the season the Bison critics proclaimed him one of the best prospects in the minors. He was easily the star backstop of the Mountain States league. In 28 games with the Huntington club in that circuit he hit .350 and fielded .971. In 54 games with Zanesville in the Central he hit the ball for .330.

THE ONLY BOWLING TEAM WITH REAL MASCOT IN ITS RANKS

Bass Foundry and Machine Club.

Boss bowlers cut a big swath in the Manufacturers' league just closed and finished in third place and for a time threatened to take second. It is one of the few clubs that enjoyed the distinction of being the Wayne Knits three times in one night and although none of the club members won any special distinction all of them showed consistent form and but for a bad start would have given the leaders a tussle.

One distinction enjoyed by the club is that it has a mascot. Most clubs pick out a goat, a terrier, cat or some other animal, but the Bass Foundry men picked a Hungarian. Just what his name is nobody knows and few care so they call him John and to make a real good mascot out of him they supplied Bowlingballskritch as a family name.

This picture was taken as the men appeared at their work and most of them didn't take time to rub the sweat of honest toil off their countenances before they posed for the picture.

A most successful bowling season closed in the Manufacturers' league with the games of Thursday night and Secretary J. Ora Gott, one of the promoters and hard workers in the organization presents his figures today which show that the Wayne Knits are the champions of the league and the Kerr Murray's won only two games in sixty.

Frank "Chick" Carr is the leading individual bowler with the high average for the season and a mark of 247 in one game. Miller, of the Bowers, however, beat him out for the best total for one series when he marked up 618 in one of his contests.

The Fort Wayne Printing company, second in the club standings, rolled 1,253 for the best showing in one series and the best total of the season was made by the Wayne Knits when the club scored 2,685 in one battle.

Of all the clubs credit is due the Kerr Murray five. Athletics are taking hold in the big establishment and it they have as game a lot as the members of the bowling team the factory will make a howling when the men get under way.

Improvement has marked the play of the men since the first week of the year and some of the weaker clubs have made strong finishes and with a little more time could have improved their positions in the race. John Leist and Fred Schwartz fought hard for second place in the individual averages and the former won out by a few points. The averages are as follows:

"CAP" STEWART, AT 72, IS UNABLE TO RESIST THE LURE OF THE SHOW LOT

Veteran Fort Wayne Showman, Young in All But Years, is Preparing to Get Away on His Annual Tour With the First Balmy Breath of Springtime—Has Followed the Game for Half a Century as Rider, Trapeze Performer, Animal Trainer, Clown and Owner, and Still Likes It. . . .

Began His Career in the Time of the Old Wagon Shows and Has Experienced Full Share of the Ups and Downs of the Business, but Manages to Keep Hopeful and Happy Through It All—Breaks Away from the Circus and Gathers in the Dimes With His Street Carnival Attractions.

"Right this way, ladies and gentlemen; pass inside—it costs but a dime—ten cents—to see Mother Nature's most astounding marvel, the fee-ocious man gorilla, captured in the wilds of Africa and brought to America at tremendous expense. He's the most fee-ocious beast known to natural history, possessing the combined strength of a dozen men! Bring me the largest limb of yonder tree and I'll have him snap it as you would break a small walking stick. He digs into human graves, brings up the bodies and eats 'em alive!"

Just at this juncture a stocky figure, smooth of face and square of jaw, with determination written in every lineament of his countenance and indignation sizing from every pore, darted from behind the curtain and stopped the speaker in the middle of his "spiel," or there is no telling to what length he might have allowed his high-speed fancy to run. He pulled the "spieler" from his dais in front of the "show" and called him off to one side.

"You'll have to cut that stuff; I won't stand for it. Why don't you study the books and do as I do—stick to the truth. Angola is a wonder, all right, but those people out there will know in a minute that he couldn't snap off the big limb of that tree. You're queering the show before we start. This great moral attraction doesn't have to be faked."

It was "Cap" Stewart. The man with the kick was William H. Stewart—"Cap" Stewart—Fort Wayne showman, veteran of the sawdust arena, rider, acrobat, animal trainer and follower of the fortunes of circus, sideshow, menagerie and carnival attraction for more than half a century with its ups and downs—and just now the proprietor and exploiter of Angola, African man-gorilla, which he is perfectly willing to admit without argument is altogether the most wonderful creature in captivity.

"I can't get anybody to make the 'opening' to suit me," declared "Cap" Stewart in disgust, referring to the spectacular effort of his hired "spieler," whom he had just suppressed. "They won't stick to the truth, and they don't appreciate the fact that our audiences are made up of intelligent men and women who realize in a minute when they have been duped. I try to be reasonable, and to educate and instruct while I entertain. I guess I'll have to keep on doing the openings myself."

"Cap" is an institution. "Cap" Stewart is more than a mere at the show game—as enthusiastic and as buoyantly hopeful as in the days before time had frosted his temples and replaced the thatch of earlier years with a glistening dome.

"I like to come back home," said the veteran showman in a conversation with The Sentinel a day or two ago, "but I the coming season, and a few weeks hence will see him off on another tour that will cover the remainder of the year.

Contrary to popular supposition, Mr. Stewart's title isn't military. It isn't "captain" at all—just plain "Cap." How he got it he thus explains: "That's a souvenir of the old days," said he. "When one at a circus asked for the governor, we knew he meant the owner of the show; if he said 'professor,' it was the leader of the band he meant, while 'Cap' was the man in charge of the animals. That was me, and the title has stuck through all these years."

Is 72, But Doesn't Look It. "Cap" Stewart is 72 years old, but he doesn't look it, and you would never guess it from the manner in which he bustles about in the direction of his show—making contracts, getting the exhibition in shape, making the opening "spiel" and later lecturing inside the circus upon the attributes and peculiarities of Angola.

Mr. Stewart was born in Fort Wayne, January 3, 1840, and he "broke into" the show business as a mere boy when an uncle, Joseph Stewart, of Cleveland, attempted to teach him the arts of a rider in the circus.

"But I could never have made a star at it," said "Cap" reminiscently. "I couldn't learn to balance myself successfully, though I got a good many hard falls and had a lot of narrow escapes trying to master it. I did about everything else about the circus—acrobatic work, trapeze performing, black-face stunts and even appeared as a clown."

"Why," he continued, "I can still hear Joe Rutledge, the old-time ringmaster in the John Robinson circus back in 1858, saying to his audience, 'Ladies and gentlemen, permit me, next to introduce to your notice Master Stewart, America's most wonderful boy equestrian, who will now attempt the hitherto unheard-of feat of riding four ponies at one and the same time.' I did it, too, but lots of other riders could have done it much better than I."

can't stay here—I can't stay anywhere. I should die if I couldn't travel about following the life of the showman."

Call Is Beckoning Him. He "closed" at Mobile, Ala., with the old year and came back to Fort Wayne, but the old call of the route is already beckoning him and he is impatient for the opening of the show season again. He has already contracted with a big carnival concern to add his man-gorilla to the congress of world's wonders for Broke Through Canal Bridge.

"I was for a time with the old Van Rice show," continued Mr. Stewart, "and I came to Fort Wayne with the Spaulding & Rogers show, along about 1855, when the first forty-horse team ever driven in America broke through the old bridge across the canal at Harrison street. It was the landwagon that went down and a number of men were hurt. The accident was the sensation of Fort Wayne for many days afterward. Joe Rutledge, the old ringmaster whom I have before mentioned, was driving the team on that day."

In 1865 Mr. Stewart joined the George W. Dellaven show. In those days the railroad shows were practically unknown and even the largest of the circuses traveled across country by wagon. In 1867 he was with the Show Brothers' circus. One of the brothers was the father of Mrs. E. J. Reineke, of this city, and "Cap" Stewart says he almost claims credit to himself for the marriage of Professor Reineke and Miss Stowe. "I helped young Fred Reineke get a job with the band in that circus," said Mr. Stewart, "and this led to his acquaintance with the young woman whom he later married."

Buys Grady's Side Show. For a period of several years beginning in 1868 Mr. Stewart was enlisted as a performer with G. G. Grady's unprecedented American shows as the attraction was grandiloquently billed, and in 1874 he purchased the side show from Mr. Grady and operated the adjunct. After a season or two he transferred it to W. W. Cole's New Orleans and New York menagerie, and later sold it to George W. Richards.

This was "Cap" Stewart's first venture as an impresario, and he went back to the Hilliard & DeMotte shows as animal trainer and performer. Then with the Vandenberg shows in 1877-78, Mr. Stewart says he trained the first den of hyenas in the United States.

Started From Fort Wayne.

In 1880 he started W. H. Stewart's Australian circus, combined with William Earle's American aggregation, and despite the ponderosity of the joint name the show got out of Fort Wayne safely on its first season. A little later Stewart and Earle had a disagreement regarding settlements, and Stewart asked for a receiver. The receiver named was Col. Ben E. Wallace, whose name is now one of the most conspicuous in the American circus world.

"Well, the show was sold under order of the court at Danville, Ill., and I lost $8,500 quicker than you could say 'Jack Robinson.' It is the laconic fashion in which Mr. Stewart disposes of the incident in his career. "As a boy I had visited Australia with the Plattfoot circus, and I saw some immense tortoises there. It occurred to me if I could get one of those fellows over here I could make some money out of it. I sent and got one that weighed 604 pounds—I 'billed' him as a thousand, but he actually weighed 604—showed him through the season and he died on my hands. I sent and got another; thought he was going to die, also, and sold him for $800 and a lot in Lafayette, Ind., that I afterwards sold for $900, so that I escaped from that deal more fortunately."

Wagon Show Came Next.

Mr. Stewart's next venture was a wagon show which he called the Stewart Family show, an aggregation of about twenty people, with ten or twelve head of horses, the tour of which was but an indifferent success. Then he secured a baby gorilla, but the animal died before he began to realize largely upon the investment.

"Four years ago my head got swelled and I thought I had to have a railroad show," said Mr. Stewart, as his eyes twinkled. "I bought two second-hand railroad cars and fitted up my show, ran it two seasons and didn't make a dollar. I figured it was time to quit, and I sold the show. Then I tried Chinese dragons. They didn't pay, and I sold them; they're now in a zoological garden in Detroit."

Which brings "Cap" Stewart's professional career down to one year ago last fall, when he imported his man-gorilla from South Africa. Contrary to local supposition, the name Angola which has been given the beast was not taken from the Northern Indiana town of that name, but from Port Angola, South Africa, where he was purchased by Mr. Stewart. With Angola, Mr. Stewart has toured the southern states extensively, appearing in every one of them save the two, Virginia and Maryland, and has also visited Cuba and Mexico. Usually his attraction is the stellar feature of a street carnival attraction, but occasionally Mr. Stewart works independently and is the "whole show."

Taking Angola's Picture.

The Sentinel asked Photographer Standish to take a flashlight photograph of Angola. "Cap" Stewart's famous man-gorilla, and the result is shown herewith. Angola was willing to pose for his portrait, all right, but it was his first experience with flashlight photography, and the blinding flash of the chemical struck terror to his heart and completely overpowered his complacency. From that moment the photographer was a marked man, and every time he approached the cage the big gorilla would hastily place his "hands" before his face and turn his head away in disgust, lest another attempt was to be made to photograph him.

Talks of His Travels.

For practically half a century "Cap" Stewart has toured America in following his calling. He hasn't any idea how many miles he has traveled, but the total would be a tremendously big number. He says that nearly all show people keep diaries in which they record every "jump" with the name of the town, the number of miles traveled, the state of the weather and of business, but for his own part he has never had time to do that sort of thing.

"How much money have you made?" was the next question fired at the veteran showman.

"I can't answer that, either," was his reply. "Thousands and thousands of dollars," he continued. "I never could keep any of it, but I haven't allowed that to worry me, or I would have been dead long ago."

Wife His Best Partner.

"Had a partner in recent years?" he was asked. "Yes, sir; my wife. She's the best partner any man ever had. I used to say in answer to that question that what your wife steals stays in the family. My wife has stuck to me through thick and thin, and there isn't another like her. We have struggled along together year by year—more than forty-five of them, now—and until within the last few years she was always with me on the road. We have slept in wagons, in tents and by the roadside in the effort to economize when business was bad and money scarce, and I have yet to hear her utter the first word of complaint. She would be with me now on my trips if it were not for the fact that her health is not rugged enough to stand the life we used to do. But she's my partner, just the same, and no matter where the show happens to be, the net receipts each week—if there is any above what will be needed for expenses—I send home to Fort Wayne."

Years ago, between the circus seasons, "Cap" Stewart occasionally tried other ventures in Fort Wayne. He was for a time the owner of a restaurant on East Main street. At another time he conducted what was known as the Arcade restaurant, on Culhoun street. It was one of the first all-night eating establishments in Fort Wayne, and its location was directly across the street from a long row of gambling houses that were permitted to flourish in those days with little molestation.

"Along in the early hours of the morning," says Mr. Stewart, "my restaurant used to be pretty well filled by the gambling fraternity, who ate the best of the land and spent money freely. But when spring came I longed for the circus again and sold the restaurant to get back into the sawdust ring."

Back to the show. That has been the call that has been sounding in "Cap" Stewart's ears for half a century. He will hear it—and follow it—to the end.

EXPECT TO BEAT THE RECORD

Railroads Preparing for Unprecedented Movement of Freight.

WILL CALL OUT LOCAL FREIGHT CREWS

And May Ask Passenger Men to Take Hand in Moving Freight.

If the weather conditions are favorable for the movement of trains, some of the Fort Wayne lines will establish a new record in the number of cars sent through the city tonight, tomorrow and tomorrow night. The Pennsylvania, the Nickel Plate and the Grand Rapids and Indiana roads have given notice that every local freight and passenger locomotive not employed in its usual way tomorrow will be used in handling through freight and orders have been issued to all engineers, conductors, firemen and brakemen of the local freight service and many from the passenger service to report for work in handling through freight trains. It is the wish of the officials to clear up the accumulated freight if possible and to have comparatively clean yards and sidings on Monday morning. It was said at the Pennsylvania offices this morning that 4,000 car loads of westbound freight would pass through Crestline tomorrow morning. This is a record. The number of cars is now moving westward over the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago branch of the system.

THIEVES ROB A TRAIN.

Break Into Five Cars While They Were in Motion.

One of the most daring freight robberies in the history of the Nickel Plate was committed early yesterday morning between Angola and Brocton, N. Y., when five cars of a Nickel Plate merchandise train were entered and thousands of dollars worth of goods stolen or destroyed. Shortly after the train pulled out of Angola, trainmen saw the five men board the train midway between the head and rear ends, and they planned to effect a capture at Brocton and with that end in view a record run was made into the latter place, as the train pulled into the yards car doors which had been forced open were quickly closed and the men held prisoners inside.

Trainmen had not, however, reckoned with their foe, and the latter were fully equal to the emergency. A hole either had been cut in the roof of the car or was cut therein soon after the men found themselves prisoners and in this way they made their escape, successfully eluding every effort at capture.

building additional tracks. Between New York and Ridgewood, N. J., there will be six tracks; four tracks to Port Jervis and double track from Port Jervis to Chicago, with occasional three and four track stretches. Other improvements will be the reduction of grades, which when accomplished will make the Erie the lowest grade standard trunk line running between New York and Chicago. East of Meadville the maximum grade will be eleven feet to the mile and west of Meadville the maximum grade will be sixteen feet to the mile. For these improvements the directors have just authorized $10,000,000 three-year 5 per cent notes and will make up the balance from earnings.

PREPARING FOR FROLIC.

Sessions of "Sons of Jove" to Feature the Meeting of Electric Men.

Fort Wayne men identified with the manufacture and sale of electric machinery and electric current are looking forward with considerable interest to a gathering in this city during the present month when there will be a rejuvenation of the Sons of Jove and the initiation of a big crop of candidates. The event will be held in connection with a convention of salesmen of the Electric works, the date for which has not yet been definitely fixed. The Sons of Jove is a secret society of electric men which seeks to find relaxation from the cares of business and afford an opportunity for an occasional smile. The class of candidates will include not only many of the Electric works salesmen, but others in Fort Wayne who are identified with electric affairs in various ways.

FREIGHT CLERKS PROMOTED.

F. C. Miller Succeeds the Late Cal McEvoy.

Agent F. H. Kirkland, of the Pennsylvania, has made several changes in the clerical department at the freight house, as a result of the death of J. Cal McEvoy two or three weeks ago. In accordance with the rule of the department, wherever possible, the vacancies have been filled by advancing men already in the service. F. C. Miller has succeeded Mr. McEvoy as receiver clerk; J. F. Fox has been advanced to claim clerk, succeeding Mr. Miller; A. C. C. Speigel has succeeded Mr. Fox as tracing clerk; G. P. Middendorf has succeeded Mr. Speigel as messenger; E. W. Koehl has succeeded Mr. Middendorf as city messenger, and M. J. Misner has been employed to fill the remaining vacancy.

MASTER MECHANIC 23 YEARS.

The consolidations mentioned by The Sentinel a few days ago in which four master mechanics were thrown out of office by the Big Four became effective yesterday. One of the unfortunate men is A. H. Watts, master mechanic of the Cincinnati Northern at Van Wert, who is known by many Fort Wayne shopmen and railroad men. He became master mechanic of those shops when they were located at Marshall, Mich., and after six years service there went with them to Van Wert seventeen years ago and remained in office until yesterday. The shops at Van Wert are now under the supervision of Geo. W. Reese, with title of general foreman.

JOHN WALLACE INJURED.

While John Wallace was shearing a piece of steel at the Pennsylvania shops yesterday, it slipped and struck him in the side, inflicting painful though not dangerous injuries. He will be unable to work for several days. Mr. Wallace, in point of service, is the oldest employee in the boiler department of the Pennsylvania shops. He worked for the company in the shops in Philadelphia when a young man, coming here forty-six years ago to take employment in the local shops when Uncle Jimmy Hewes was the foreman.

HIRED THREE FIREMEN.

The Grand Rapids and Indiana company made another addition to its force of firemen yesterday when F. J. Alberts, W. B. Wells and A. E. Wells were employed. Mr. Alberts is the famous ball player, commonly called "Cy" Alberts, and the fact that he has taken this position, indicates that he has abandoned base ball. W. B. Wells was employed as a fireman on the Pennsylvania last winter and his brother was formally a brakeman on the G. B. & I.

REPAIRED FIFTEEN ENGINES.

The output of repaired engines from the Pennsylvania erecting shop during the week ending today includes No. 7183, the big locomotive which figured in the Larwill wreck two weeks ago. This engine was pulling the Pennsylvania limited. Other engines repaired and turned out during the week were Nos. 7147, 7115, 7222, 7259, 7356, 7400, 7418, 7436, 7139, 7166, 9071, 9380, 9389, and 9911.

UNCONSCIOUS AT THE KEYS.

For six hours William R. Romine, 24 years old, telegraph operator at Sonora, sat unconscious at his keys until an evening train, failing to get its signals, stopped and the crew discovered his plight. He is said to be dying of concussion of the brain. He was kicked in the forehead by a coil, but the injury was considered trifling.

HAD A BUSY WEEK.

The week closing today has been an unusually busy one at the Wabash shops. Six engines were turned out and each received heavy repairs. They were Nos. 118, 519, 417, 619, 831 and 2048. The four first named are passenger engines.

FELL OFF AN ENGINE.

A. Nolepa, a boilermaker's helper, sustained injuries yesterday which threaten to disable him a week or so. He fell off an engine in the shops yesterday and badly sprained his back.

Machinist H. B. Grafmiller got his left hand caught in a machine he was operating at the Pennsylvania tool room Thursday night and two of the fingers, the index and the second finger, were painfully crushed at the ends.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

The "Newly Weds" company came in at noon today over the Wabash road.

W. Griner and J. J. Haas, Pennsylvania shopmen, are sick.

Walter Elix, Pennsylvania dispatcher, is sick and off duty.

Machinist Ed Kline, of the Pennsylvania shops, went to Ronoke last night to spend a couple of days with his folks on the farm near that place.

Machinist Fred Jalland, of the Pennsylvania shops, entertained his brother, Charles Jalland, who resides on a farm near Decatur, yesterday.

Yard Conductor Alex. Thunvener resumed work in the Pennsylvania yards this morning. He was sick with stomach trouble for two weeks.

Mrs. G. W. Barber, wife of the Pennsylvania machinist, will leave early next week for Madison, where she will spend a few days with relatives and then go to Terre Haute to visit other relatives.

The Pennsylvania erecting shop added two helpers and two laborers to the working force this morning. The helpers are Albert McCutcheon and Albert Butz and the laborers are Italians.

A. S. Courney, assistant foreman of the Pennsylvania machine shop, is afflicted with a severe attack of neuralgia of the face and was not able to show up for duty today.

Engineers C. B. Whitman, Thomas White and John F. Wagner and Firemen W. Recht, J. E. Mason and F. E. Sarver, of the Pennsylvania, are off duty on account of sickness.

Word from Hudson, Mich., where Pennsylvania Fireman A. P. Lewis has been nearly all winter, suffering with pneumonia and its results, is to the effect that he is now improving and that he will soon return here to resume work on the road.

Dispatcher T. J. Costello represented the Pennsylvania dispatchers' office at the funeral of the late George P. Stewart at Plymouth this afternoon. Before he was disabled by sickness Mr. Stewart was employed in the dispatchers' office a number of years.

Engineer and Mrs. Denis McCarthy left last night for Columbus, Ohio, where they will attend the funeral of Mrs. Coffey, who was a sister of Mrs. McCarthy, who died yesterday, following an illness of several weeks. The deceased was the mother of a couple of men who are well up in railway circles in the country. Her brother, J. O'Shaughnessy, is the superintendent of waterworks at Columbus.

For lower Austria a new law containing various regulations concerning servants has gone into force. It decrees that servants must no longer be called "servants" but "employees." The employer must feed the servant properly, and the servant is forbidden to chatter or gossip to other servants about the private affairs of the family. It is not stated how this provision shall be enforced.

LAWRENCE MILL WORKERS THERE

Strikers and Their Children

Tell Statesmen of Hardships.

INQUIRY UNDER WAY

Washington, March 2.—The factory boy and the factory girl had their first innings in congress today when they appeared as witnesses before the rules committee of the house which is considering the necessity for an investigation of the Lawrence, Mass., strike.

They appeared to tell the committee the hardships of life under the working conditions imposed by the mill owners. The committee, seeking full information, called the children as witnesses. Carmella Teoli, an Italian girl of sixteen years, pretty and shy, was one of the "exhibits."

Two years ago she was caught in a loom and frightfully injured. Her scalp was torn from her head, but no legal proceedings were instituted against the company. She still works in a woolen mill and with her father is the support of a family of seven. The aggregate pay of the father and daughter is seven dollars a week.

The little boys who work in the mills enjoyed the strange situation today and took more interest in marvelling at the luxuries of the fittings of the committee room than they did in the probability of the examination by the attorneys who represented them. Moving picture men and other photographers took in their every move.

Room Was Crowded.

Photographers, congressmen and labor leaders took possession of the steel trust investigation quarters in the house office building today when the rules committee began consideration of the proposal that congress investigate the Lawrence, Mass., textile strike.

The big room was crowded when Representative Wilson, of Pennsylvania made the opening argument for the strikers. He said that the action of the soldiers in stopping the removal of children from Lawrence was the beginning of the passport system in the United States. Mr. Wilson argued that the federal government had the power to interfere when the power of the state was being used against the citizen.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was present at the hearing, as was John Golden, president of the Textile Workers' union. A delegation of strikers and children from Lawrence attracted much attention.

Berger Gives His Reasons.

Representative Berger, of Wisconsin, the socialist member of congress, explained his reasons for asking a federal investigation. "It is not the purpose of my bill," he said, "to urge an investigation of the conditions in Lawrence or the constitutional point of the brutal interference with women and children at that place. What my bill proposes to investigate now is the relation of the American Woolen company to the strike of its operatives at Lawrence, Mass."

"The American Woolen company has for years been the recipient of a government subsidy in the form of a high tariff. It has been claimed that this high tariff is levied in order to protect labor. Yet in spite of this claim, it is generally conceded that these operatives are among the lowest paid of any industry in America. This strike took place as a result of a reduction of about fifty cents per week out of a wage averaging less than six dollars per week. An investigation of the American Woolen company is properly within the jurisdiction of this house."

Mr. Berger charged that the working communities where wages are least and

UNCLE SAM AS A HOUSEKEEPER

He Gives Splendid Care to Bachelors Working on Big Canal.

MAY "SPOIL" THEM

Portland, Ore., March 2.—Geo. Palmer Putnam, writing from the Panama canal to the Oregonian, makes these statements:

Paradoxical as the statement may appear, the most interesting feature of the work at Panama is not the work, but the workers. To get a glimpse of the workers is to get a real view of the work.

There are about 35,000 employees on the canal zone, 5,000 working for the Panama railroad, the rest for the isthmian canal commission. About 5,000 of these are Americans.

To a casual observer the social life on the canal zone appears at first sight far from unattractive. At Ancon, the American part of Panama City, on the Pacific, at Colon, and Empire, along the line of the canal, and at Cristobal, the American part of Colon, on the Atlantic, there are many pleasant homes and many delightful persons.

The wealthier women, whose husbands have comfortable homes, arrange their lives much as similarly situated women would do in the north. The only variation is that on the zone they have fewer friends to call upon and once their calling list is exhausted there remains nothing else to do. To be sure, there are dances every two weeks at the big government hotel at Ancon for those who live within striking distance, and the enterprising always may get up something in the way of rides, or tennis, or swimming excursions.

There are no theaters, no places to go to, few drives, in short, absolutely no opportunity to break away from the daily routine of the work and the workers.

Wages Are High.

When they started work on the isthmus, in 1904, about 90 per cent. of the office men left every year and a high proportion of the out of door workers. All this refers to the Americans. To alleviate this condition was a problem. While the canal zone employment probably never will hold men as permanently as similar work in northern climes, the original situation of dissatisfaction has been altered wonderfully.

Perhaps the financial end comes first. The wage scale for Americans on the isthmus is from 20 to 100 per cent. higher than for similar work in the United States. This means that almost every one is in better circumstances than he was before he came to Panama, and to some extent there is manifested as a result an effort on the part of many to live up to their incomes, and by a few to show what they have. Everyone knows what everyone else gets, and all are quartered and provided for according to their salaries. A natural result is the creation of a peculiar social classification, arranged far more with regard to the dollar sign than would be possible in normal communities. It would be entirely unfair, however, to intimate that more than a small part of the delightful isthmian society is afforded at all by this species of financial allotment.

Free Quarters Provided.

Free quarters are provided by the commission. In fact, the government comes so near to arranging everything pertaining to the details of daily life that a criticism sometimes heard, even from the recipients themselves, is that after a few years in the zone with no need for initiative all desires to return to other modes of life, where a man gets only what he goes after, are apt to be abandoned.

Bachelors are quartered in two-story dormitories, getting their rooms, light and fuel free. All "gold" employees, that is Americans who are paid in United States currency instead of Panama silver, have the privilege of dining at the government hotels. Meals which really are excellent are sold for 30 cents each, coupon books, which are bought and debited against their salaries, being used by the men.

European laborers, who receive 20 cents an hour, get three meals a day for 40 cents, while the negroes, who come from Jamaica, eat in the "kitchens" where they do their own serving and are charged 27 cents for three meals. One of the coming problems, by the way, is that of disposing of the 20,000 or more negroes. It seems to be generally accepted that on the completion of the work they will be returned to the West-Indian islands.

Every year every salaried employee is entitled to a six weeks' vacation with full pay. If they make the return to New York by the government steamship line, they are further benefited by getting the privilege of a half fare rate.

Free medical service, and splendid medical attention at that, is the privilege of every worker. One can have thirty days a year in the hospitals with full pay, and after that the treatment, but no pay.

Medal Given for Service.

There is a sentimental remuneration in the shape of a service medal given to those who have remained two years, with additional bars for each succeeding two years. These medals are cast from the metals of old French machinery left from the De Lessups regime.

Chief among the social influences in the canal zone is the Young Men's Christian association. There are seven club houses scattered along the line of the

DO YOU WANT TO BE CURSED BY THIS AND THE NEXT GENERATION? AND THEN BY THE NEXT? AND THE NEXT?

(By Henry M. Williams.)

The man who votes for the permanent closing of Clinton street will receive the curses of the future, whether his name be Hogan, or Lennon, or Beany, or Swegman, and the throwing away of that splendid trading material, Chicago street, stub ends of Harrison, Webster, and McClellan streets, and the hamely valuable concession of four new tracks across the Calhoun street tunnel, amounts, practically to a permanent abandonment of the Clinton street opening. The railroad will grab it, beyond all peradventure, their general instruction to agents here, "Get all you can, keep all you've got."

Great Calhoun Street.

Fort Wayne is a one-street town, and Calhoun is that street, the main artery of travel, drawing trade from the west and from the east, soon to be so congested that the two adjoining street, Clinton and Harrison, will be absolutely needed for the overflow. Barr street is permanently closed under the railroads; Webster street on the west is also closed permanently. It has been now settled by agreement that we shall have Harrison street opened under the railroads to give quick access to the freight house of the Wabash 7,000-mile system on the west corner of Harrison street, and to their passenger station on the east corner of Harrison street. The opening of Clinton street must also be agreed upon now, immediately, not waiting for the year 1915 to settle this all important question.

At the east corner of Clinton street we shall probably see a Baltimore and Ohio freight station. Now is the time to settle it while we have in hand material to trade for it, the full length of Chicago street and the stub ends of Harrison, Webster and McClellan streets, and while we have the option of giving, or not giving, to the Pennsylvania Railroad company the extremely valuable concession of four additional tracks across Calhoun street, darkening and injuring very much that under-tunnel crossing. Whether these streets and these four additional track concessions are worth a quarter million dollars, or not, they are certainly worth the cost to the railroad of the opening of Clinton street.

Two Injunctions.

May 16 last, being informed by a leading city official that the board had agreed to close Harrison street permanently and open Webster street, that the papers were drawn and the agreement would be made within three days, I filed an injunction against this outrageous proceeding, through my attorney, Judge Erwin, before our circuit court judge. This court proceeding effectually stopped the signing of that agreement, and I consider that to the future Fort Wayne, to the city of Fort Wayne thirty years hence, my injunction is worth one quarter million dollars.

Religion of the Future.

The religion of the future has arrived, which is the Christ religion of the present humanity added to, supplemented by, the care for our successors, thirty, sixty, a hundred, a thousand years hence. To strive to do nothing to injure the comfort and convenience of our successors in the future, that is the new religion, the religion of the future humanity supplementing the religion of the present humanity, a part of, growing out of, the original Christ religion of humanity. His wonderful concern and care and love for children (the future humanity) was one of its strongest evidences. The time and the words that Christ gave to children was a very large proportion of His grand and glorious teaching.

Clinton Street Now.

What I helped to accomplish by my Harrison street injunction I now propose to try to accomplish by another injunction regarding the Clinton street opening under the great railroad barriers that separate north Fort Wayne from south Fort Wayne. This city must have three through route streets adjoining under the great railroad obstructive barrier, one on each side of the great Calhoun, soon to be lined with store buildings its entire length, from Superior to Pontiac, and our successors will praise us if we save for them these future great necessities; they will curse us if we do not. The wave of civic reform, civic improvement, conservation, beautification, has spread all over the United States, and the present Fort Wayne will do her duty to the future Fort Wayne.

When Babb made the pretense of searching the prisoners as they finished their visit in the office of Captain Ellis he overlooked the things.

The guard who saw the articles passed reported the fact, and as a result Ruef was searched in the inner office by John Murray, lieutenant of the guard. The chocolate and the newspaper clipping were taken from Ruef and he was promptly deprived of his privileges for two months.

George B. Keane, attorney for Ruef, was the first friend of the prisoner to learn what had occurred. Keane called at the prison, but was not permitted to see Ruef. William Cohn, who was formerly associated with Ruef's uncle in the firm of Cohn, Hirsch & Co., called to see Ruef and was informed that Ruef could see no visitors for two months.

Ruef's friends said that they deemed it most unfortunate that he should be deprived of his privileges at this time, while an effort was being made to have him paroled.

Now it appears, as a result of the warden's research, that Ruef has been standing at one end of a regular underground road for the transportation of milk chocolate.

Other guards at the prison are suspected of the offense which caused the dismissal of Babb, and the warden, who stated that it wasn't Ruef's first offense, now believes that his model prisoner has been eluding his vigilance constantly. Visitors who have come to see Ruef, as had been presumed, to talk of his desired pardon or parole, are now suspected of other motives, and there seems to be good ground for the suspicion.

pleon that their real purpose was to bring Ruef more milk chocolate.

There have been hard cases at the prison before of convicts who practiced all sorts of sly games to get the particular variety of "dope" to which they had been addicted in their former life. Old habits have been hard to break in many a case, where the prisoner was perfectly normal in every other regard. But the milk chocolate habit is a puzzle to the prison officials. They never met anything just like it before.

What powerful motive was at work, they are wondering, to make the model prisoner risk his reputation for modelness—just for milk chocolate.

A careful observation will be made of Ruef during the two months in which his supply of milk chocolate is cut off, to determine what effect abstemiousness has on his condition.

MILK CHOCOLATE HABIT AT FAULT

Gets Abe Ruef "in Bad" at the San Quentin Prison.

CUT OFF PRIVILEGES

San Quentin, Cal., March 2.—Abe Ruef is to lose all his privileges at San Quentin prison for two months because he received four cakes of chocolate and a newspaper clipping from a visitor, in violation of the rules.

George Babb, a guard, who made a pretense of searching Ruef, has been discharged because he failed to find the contraband on Ruef's person. For his offense in taking the articles Ruef must dispense with visitors, writing and tobacco for two months. He will not lose any credits. Ruef will keenly feel the loss of his visitors and the privilege of writing, but tobacco is a luxury he does not crave.

Mrs. Henrietta Sittenfeld, Ruef's sister, confirmed a report that when she heard the news she attempted to commit her life with carbolic acid, but had been deterred by members of her family. She said that she felt as though her brother was being persecuted in San Quentin and that she could hardly bear up under it.

According to John E. Hoyle, the penitentiary warden, Ruef had received articles before in violation of the rules, but he was not detected. A visitor named M. M. Barnett gave Ruef the chocolate and the newspaper clipping.

Dr. HARDMAN SPECIALIST

I Cure Pelvic, Nervous and Chronic Diseases

No man can afford to undertake his daily labor without being well equipped, mentally and physically. It is a fact that the man who is afflicted with any disease is working under a disadvantage in proportion to the extent of the trouble. Many a man has been forced to abandon a successful career because disease has lessened his ability to successfully compete with those who were strong and therefore able to forge to the front. Do you know how much you are losing every day of your life because of your inability to do the work of a strong, healthy man? Do you feel as though you can afford to continue as you are when you are cured? Perhaps you have tried to get well. Have you ever gone to a specialist, one who has made a lifelong study of diseases such as yours? Perhaps you have gone to your family physician and because he could not cure you have abandoned hope. Did you ever stop to consider that your family physician has several hundred different diseases to treat? Can you blame him for not thoroughly understanding all of them? Of course you cannot. Then why not go to one who devotes all his energies to the study of just a few and who can the more thoroughly understand them?

I have made a special study of Pelvic, Nervous and Chronic diseases and have developed methods which will cure where the ordinary methods have failed.

If you will call at my office I will give you a careful and thorough examination and if your case is curable I will make you a fee as low as possible and consistent with honest, scientific treatment.

If I think your case is incurable I will tell you so, as I have no time to waste, and no desire to accept money for treating incurable diseases.

BLOOD POISON—I use only the most advanced methods in the treatment of blood poison and kindred diseases.

PROSTATIC ENLARGEMENT—This may result from a number of causes. The constant jarring and vibration of trains and trolley cars are a very potent cause. Bicycle riding and the use of riding implements on the farm are factors in producing the disease. In fact, the causes are so many and varied that fully 75 per cent. of all male adults are afflicted to a greater or lesser extent by this disease. The disease is so little understood, and as one of the principal symptoms is a pain in the back, it is usually called kidney trouble and treated with local applications or sedatives which can do no possible good whatever. I reduce the enlargement and have been able to cure about 90 per cent. of all cases.

VARICOCELE—I cure Varicocele in a few days' or weeks' time without the use of the knife.

STRICTURE—I readily remove Stricture by my dissolvent method without the use of instruments.

RUPTURE, PILES, FISTULA, ETC., cured without detention from business and without the use of the knife.

HOW IT HAPPENED

Big Vaudeville at the Majestic
Common Sense Prices

LEAF FROM MAJESTIC THEATRE DIARY.

Wednesday, 4:30 p. m.—Telegram from the New York office advising "no good shows available for the week of March 4th."
Wednesday, 4:35 p. m.—In communication with vaudeville booking office.
Thursday—Booked eight big acts and completed all arrangements for a season of spring vaudeville.
Friday noon—Paper on the bill boards announcing the biggest vaudeville show at the smallest price.
Friday, 1:00 p. m.—Seat sale open for the entire week.

It is the spirit of "do it now" that spells success and success has been stamped on every venture launched by the Majestic management. While a big vaudeville show presented at 10 and 20 cent prices is an innovation in this city, the Majestic management does not claim to be the originator of this class of entertainment, as all of the largest cities have houses playing high class acts at the above prices. In changing the policy of the Majestic, the management has simply fallen in line with hundreds of other theaters which are unable to get good road attractions at this time of the year.

The popular vaudeville season will open on Monday afternoon and two performances will be given daily, matinee at 2:30 and evening performance at 8:15. On the bill will be eight big vaudeville acts, any one of which will alone be worth the price of admission. Two of the acts that are sure to command special attention are Marcelle's Tropical Tricksters and Bird Comedians and the Great Francellias, the world's greatest heavy weight jugglers, who entertain with wonderful feats of strength. Other acts on the bill are Cycling Rosey, Caldwell and Pelton, Mae Keogh and company in a laughable comedy sketch entitled "The Typewriter Girl," Will Hart, the minstrel comedian; Casad, Irwin and Casad in a comedy musical offering, "Everyday Life on the Railroad," and the McCall Trio, who have become important factors in the vaudeville world through their big comedy singing and dancing act. Prof. Reineke and his orchestra will furnish the musical program for the biggest vaudeville show at the smallest price ever offered in this vicinity.

"NEWLYWEDS AND THEIR BABY."

Tremendous Laughing Success at Majestic This Evening.

"The Newlyweds and Their Baby," which comes to the Majestic theater for two performances today, has undeniably achieved a most pronounced success. The play-going public at large have looked forward to its coming as an event worthy of patronage. It is said to be a delightful mixture of clean comedy and great atmospheric picture. The company is large and very able, and in addition to the leading players, there is an auxiliary interest in the form of genuine western cavalrymen, cowboys, Mexican vaqueros, Apache Indians and twenty cow ponies from Arizona cattle ranges. The locale of the scenes is Southwestern Arizona before the advent of the wire fences and during the period when General Crook was chasing Geronimo and his braves in the reservation at Fort Grant. The story, although written about a western theme, and strongly dramatic, is not that of the "wild and woolly" character that one almost instinctively associates with the term, western play. The personalities of the story are, of last act at Sweetwater, presenting a cattle round-up, is a typical scene of western bravado and cowboy horsemanship, with a dozen bucking broncos. The magnitude of this production is such that it can only be played in a few cities and in only the largest theaters. The cast includes Hapley Holmes, Harold Hartwell, William Conklin, Mitchell Harris, Harry Cowan, W. H. Sullivan, M. E. Heisey, Frank Vail, James Asburn, Jacques Martin, W. N. Bailey, Edward Settle, Charles Aldridge, "Tex" Cooper, Gerda Henius, Iuez Macaulay and Mattie Edwards. There will be an auxiliary organization of 150 people, including soldiers, scouts, cow-punchers, Mexican sparkling music, with just enough originality and novelty to make it deservedly popular. The company this season is headed by such well known favorites as Charles A. Morgan, Daniel F. Murphy, Earl Knapp and Olga Von Hatzfeld, and fifty-six others.

"THE ROUND-UP" COMING.

Klaw & Erlanger's Big Production at the Majestic March 15-16.

"The Round-Up," Klaw & Erlanger's stupendous production of Edmund Day's famous drama, will be seen for the first time in this city at the Majestic theater March 15 and 16. This play, with its heart interest and thrills and extraordinary sensationalism in the most realistic battle scene ever presented, has a popular appeal that has resulted in an unbroken succession of crowded audiences wherever seen.

The production is one of the largest that Klaw & Erlanger have ever made, and they have omitted no detail in scenery or equipment that could contribute in any way to the completeness of this course, the rough and homely type of the ranges, but the story is one of such supreme heart interest and so true to human nature generally that it perhaps could be translated to another locale and interpreted by different types of character, with fully as great effectiveness as in the setting in which it is now presented. The broad art of the scene painter and the marvels of stagecraft have never produced such scenes as those represented by "The Round-Up." The eye looks upon the great distance of arid desert and up to the towering gigantic canyons with wonderment that paint and brush, stage mechanism and light effects can have such magic use as to present such vividly real scenes. The "battle scene"—the real thing in shot and shell and galling gun, and it is worked up to a climax of overwhelming excitement. In this scene twenty mounted Indians rise along the tortuous path at the edge of a precipice and the attack upon the two wanderers of the desert by this band of Apache Indians and their routing by a detachment of United States cavalry, headed by "Shin" Hoover, the sheriff. The scene of the vaqueros, Arizona girls, Apache Indians and twenty horses.

"PINAFORE" IS COMING SOON.

Grand Revival of Comic Opera at March 18, by All-Star Cast.

At the Majestic theater on March 18 the long-heralded all-star cast revival of Gilbert & Sullivan's most popular of the even dozen of comic operas, "Pinafore," will have local presentation.

To the favor with which the public viewed the revival of "The Mikado" by the same authors two years ago is due to the presentation of "Pinafore," which is made under the direction of the Messrs. Shubert & Brady.

The songs, lyrics and story of "Pinafore" are all well known to the present generation of theater-goers, not only by reason of its several other previous revivals, but because the great popularity that it has enjoyed as the most favored of all the works of its well known writers. Aside from the popularity of "Pinafore" it is worthy of note that its present sponsors have assembled for its all-star presentation a notable cast, in DeVolt Hopper, Eugene Cowles, Vilia Gillette, George MacFarlane, Arthur Aldridge, Richard Temple and Elsa von Bostel, all of them well known players who have been seen in this city and elsewhere on other occasions, either as stars or featured principals in musical comedies and operettas.

LYRIC THEATER.

The Lyric is showing a Reliance today and night entitled "The Duel," highly dramatic in construction, dealing as it does with the moonshiners of West Virginia. The other picture is "The Tangled Skein." Crystal Bell singing and dancing and Jean McElroy, harpist, complete the slot. Sunday Marion Leonard in "Through Flaming Gates." Monday starts a great week at the Lyric, the pictures for Monday are "Far From the Madding Crowd," a problem picture of two men and a woman. A strange man enters into the lives of a husband and wife up in the Hudson Bay territory and the wife decides for the stranger. Another picture is the Rex "The Final Fardou."

Beauty Chorus in "The Newlyweds and Their Baby," at the Majestic Theater this Evening.

The animal mother kills to protect her young—and so the mother killed the man who denied his child parentage. The judge appointed a lawyer to defend her and the battle for a human soul was fought. In ringing terms the prosecutor demanded her life as a forfeit for the life she had taken—and the jury listened to the logic of the law. The attorney for the defense spoke of the little life that had created in sin, and the jury listened to a plea of humanity and maternity, and heard the silent voice of right.

LAUDS CHASE AS HELP TO NATION

Harrisburg, Pa., March 2.—Extolling shooting as a means of making expert riflemen for use when national defense is necessary in times of war, the state game commission in its annual report just filed with Governor Tener adds that there is nothing better to fit young men to meet the responsibilities of life. "We appreciate the value of expert riflemen as a national defense in times of war," says the report. "We understand that the experience obtained in hunting and in camp life, in traversing our forests by day or by night, fits our young men to meet the responsibilities of life as nothing else can fit them. We realize that the value of the food supply obtained through shooting means much to many."

The report shows that the woods are filled with more quail, ruffed grouse and wild turkeys than have been seen in years. Deer were more plentiful and more were killed in the short season in December than in recent years, and bears have increased in numbers rapidly, but owing to the restrictions placed on the use of steel traps fewer were killed.

The report of the commissioners in part says:

"From what we have been able to gather from this and other reports made to us, and from a personal examination made in different parts of the state, we feel satisfied that song and insectivorous birds of all kinds, classed as wild birds other than game birds, are increasing in this state."

"The reports of wild turkeys have been exceedingly flattering, and we believe there are more wild turkeys in the state today than there have been for many years."

"We view with alarm the disposition of many to use high power rifles in the neighborhood of towns, near public roads and thickly settled rural communities, and that no more accidents from the same have been reported is a source of surprise and wonder to us."

The commission states that only three per cent. of the residents of the state shoot and that the remainder are entitled to protection from reckless Nimrods.

SPLENDID TEMPLE BILL

Annie Abbott, "The Georgia Magnet," and "Cinderella," Elaborate Musical Extravaganza, With Eight Well Known Musical Comedy Stars, Tops List of Features.

The bill for the week of Monday matinee, March 4, at the Temple, will be one of the very best feature bills of the season. Annie Abbott, "The Georgia Magnet," heads the list. Miss Abbott is mighty without muscle; she weighs only 110 pounds and she can lift twenty men, but twenty men cannot lift her. This is the greatest exhibition of supernatural power ever presented in public. The world's strongest men, including Sandow, Jeffries, Gotch, Hackenschmidt, have all tried to lift Annie Abbott and have failed. Miss Abbott has given her remarkable performance in all parts of the civilized world and has appeared before kings and queens and the nobility of every land. Miss Abbott has been pronounced by the world's most noted scientists and physicians one of the psychic marvels of the age and her act is unquestionably the most interesting and mysterious before the public today. The bewitching, beautiful musical extravaganza, "Cinderella," with eight well known musical comedy stars, mostly girls, will be one of the best acts ever booked to the Temple. The act was the feature of the bill at the Majestic theater, Chicago, recently, and the press and public alike declare this the best and most beautiful act of the season. The act is costing the Temple management a neat sum.

Frank Rae and company in William M. Cressy's latest comedy success, entitled "Bottle 6-40-9," is said to be the biggest laugh producer in vaudeville. Mr. Rae is a natural born comedian and has appeared in this city several times, heading big musical comedies. In his new offering he is said to be seen at his best. The act has been featured all over the circuit and will surely delight all who pay a visit to the Temple.

Pete Lawrence and company will present a classic in slang, "The Fresh Freshman," which is one of the big comedy hits of the year. Mr. Lawrence is a well known star, having been featured in "The College Widow" and many other big successes. He is said to have a very clever little company.

Allen and White are novelty whistlers who were the late feature of Lew Dockstader's minstrels. They will be heard in selections from rag-time to grand opera.

Lambert and Williams in "Songs and Smiles," have one of those delightful acts just chuck full of good, sparkling comedy, and both are said to possess excellent voices.

The LaKellors are clever Mexican novelty artists and will present a picturesque and scenic novelty, "Circus Eve in Mexico."

The Temple motion picture man will run some new photo-plays and Prof. Dickey and his splendid orchestra, which is conceded by all one of the very best theater orchestras in the country and by far the best orchestra in the state, will play a selection for the opening overture from Prof. Dickey's own pen.

"On the average of about 150,000 feet of film are placed on the British market every week, and this quantity is steadily increasing. It is computed that there are some 50,000 picture theaters scattered throughout the world, and as the number is increasing daily, the supply of films has by no means yet reached the limits of demand."—Moving Pictures; How They Are Made and Worked.

GET WOMEN IN AN OPIUM RAID

Many Chinese Seized by Police at Hartford in Search.

DRUG FROM NEW YORK

Hartford Conn., Mar. 2.—Secret service agents, assisted by police of this city, made opium raids on three houses run by Chinese, all of whom, it is said, are affiliated with the Four Brothers society. More than twenty Chinese were arrested. It is believed that the evidence on which the raids were made was gathered by a member of a rival tong.

The federal detectives came here from New York and got into communication with Chauncey H. Eno, collector of internal revenue. It was learned that a large quantity of opium, supposed to have been smuggled into this country, had been shipped from New York to Hartford. For several weeks secret service agents have been working in New York in an effort to trace the opium. Following a raid about ten days ago in Brooklyn shipments to Hartford began to be heavy.

When the raiders hammered down the doors of a three-story house on state street they came upon two white women. One said she had lived at No. 13 Pell street, New York, and had smoked opium for ten years. Recently, she said, she had been unable to get it in New York because of the sharpness of the federal agents, and had come here to satisfy her craving.

Nine men were found smoking opium in a room of the house. In another room was a pile of knives and revolvers. "We want those in case those trouble-makers come up here from New York," one of the men said.

In every house raided opium and smoking layouts were found.

Wing Lee, a prisoner, is police court interpreter here. It is said he is the man who has been procuring the opium for Hartford's Chinatown. The federal agents say that they have plenty of evidence against him and a Hartford druggist on charges of having opium for sale. The penalty for this is $1,000 fine and ten years in prison. Wing Lee was released in $5,000 bail.

BRIDE JUST 70; HUSBAND IS 22

Mrs. Witham-Crain Admits She Courted Him and Proposed.

BUT 'TIS LEAP YEAR OFFENSE A FELONY

Mason City, March 2.—Tiring of being a widow, Mrs. Luella Witham, 70 years old, outwitted her grandchildren and the young girls of the little village by "popping the question" to Frank Crain, one of the "village beaux," 22 years old, and eloped with him to Newport, Ky.

Can a bride of 70 love her husband as one of 18?

"Why, certainly, I love my husband just the same as a young girl would, and we are both as happy as happy can be," declared Mrs. Crain.

Luella Witham-Crain's grandchildren may not like their 22-year-old step-grandfather, but she says she does not care, and that she expects to live with him at least 20 years. She is now 70 years old and declares she is good for two decades more.

"Up to the time a woman is 80 she has a perfect right to marry if she is sound of mind and body, without the consent of her relatives," said Mrs. Crain, after returning from her runaway marriage. The happy couple are occupying the blushing bride's cozy cottage here.

And she really loves Frank, she says. She made him swear that he really loved her, and not her big farm. And Frank swore thus:

"I'll stick to you as long as you stick to me. I have met a lot of girls in my day, but none of them comes up to you on judgment. It's you I love and not your land."

She Tells of His Courtship. "Those were his very words," said the bride in this odd romance. "But he will have to show me. He will have to work. I am not going to support him, nor give him any of my money. He will have to prove that he loves me."

"It is not good for an old woman to be alone. Why, only last week someone entered my home and stole some money. That made me think that I ought to have a husband around the house with me who would not only be good and kind, but strong. There have been all kinds of men around who wanted to marry me, but I knew they were after my money and not after me."

"When I saw Frank again after he had been away for some years I decided that he was the man for me, and I began to court him. You know we old ladies somehow ain't as popular as the 18-year-olds, and this being leap year I had a perfect right to do some courting and the proposing, too."

"One Saturday I met Frank in church and he asked me if he could see me home that evening, and I said: 'Why, certainly, Frank.'"

"Frank, Will You Marry Me?" "He took me home and we talked in the parlor just like the young folks do. I began telling him how lonely it was here for me all alone and I said: 'Frank, will you marry me?'"

"He looked up a little surprised and said: 'You bet I will.'"

"We decided to go to Newport, Ky., and have the thing done on the quick, for I knew the people about town and my relatives would do all they could to prevent us getting married, for they wanted me to stay single the rest of my life and will everything to them."

"We are married now and they have no more right to separate us than I have to separate my girls from their husbands. We are going to live right here in Mason. In this little cottage, which I own besides my big farm out in the country, and Frank and I are happy as can be. Yes, a bride of 70 can be just as happy as one of 18, and take it from me as the truth."

Mrs. Crain's first husband died several years ago. He was one of the wealthiest and most prominent farmers in Warren county. He left his wife valuable lands and bonds worth thousands of dollars.

KANSAS SOON TO BAR SOCIAL EVIL

Welfare Board Attorney Drafting New Bill for Legislature.

Legislature.

Lansing, Kan., March 2.—Kansas is to be the pioneer state in prohibition of disorderly houses, according to J. K. Coddling, warden of the state prison here and attorney for the state welfare board. Coddling is engaged in drafting the bill that will be presented to the next legislature and he expects it to be made into a law.

"We will make it a penitentiary offense for a woman to engage in a disreputable traffic, and the man who dares to offend against pure womanhood will get a prison term," Coddling said.

"When a woman becomes a member of the fallen class she loses all self-respect and all respect for the law of the land. The man who brings her into that condition is responsible for making her a criminal."

Mothers Are to Blame. "From my point of view, the cause of the social evil appears to be ignorance," Coddling continues. "Mothers should take their daughters into their confidence about intimate subjects. Children should learn such things from the right source and not from evil associates on the streets. The mysteries of sex should be made plain as early as possible. There should be no misunderstanding about motherhood and fatherhood on the part of the children."

"Supposing you are successful in abolishing disorderly houses, what are you going to do with the women now resident in these districts?" Coddling was asked.

"I don't know," he replied frankly. "If they were 500 Texas cattle some farmer would open his fences and turn them into his field. But disreputable women? There is no haven for them in this world that I know of, and nobody who wants to be responsible for their control."

Crime a Disease. Speaking generally of crime, Coddling declares the average criminal is a misfit into society and afflicted with disease of mind and morals that can be prevented better than it can be cured. In this thought he continued:

"The purpose of a penitentiary is not entirely that of punishing or correcting criminals and misfits. The particular one I am warden of is an experimental station or laboratory in which we study the disease both in incipient and aggravated cases. We even hope some day to furnish a preventative."

"Some things we have discovered already is that crime is largely a young person's disease. About 68 per cent. of the convicts in the institution at Lansing are under 30 years of age. Poverty we have learned, is a great cause for crime, and environment. We find, cuts four times the figure in moulding human character than heredity does."

LITTLE PIG IS CAUSE OF IT ALL

He Nearly Disrupts Fair Conducted by New York Women.

GETS ON SYMPATHY

New York, March 2.—The maternal instinct that glows in the suffragist bosom nearly caused a riot in the suffrage fair at the state headquarters, 180 Madison avenue. The result was the elimination of the most striking advertisement the bazaar boasted and the saving of a little life with the conservation of the rights of liberty and pursuit of happiness thrown in.

The country market of the fair, which did a rapid business in the basement, had a baby pig as its chief attraction. The pig, in a little pen by the window, with pink nose pressed against the glass drew crowds. Persons stocked in and were gently, but firmly separated from their money. Everything would have been lovely had it not been for the patent lack of enthusiasm of the pig himself.

Every now and then a plaintive little grunt floated over the top of the pen, while the small victim sank into the straw and buried its snout between his trotters. Now, there are plenty of suffragists who are mothers, the anti to the contrary notwithstanding, and they crowded about the pen.

"It's a wicked shame keeping him there; he's cold," said a woman.

"Nonsense," said another; "he was sent by Mrs. Ruth from her farm, and she kept him out of doors. But there is no doubt there is something the matter with him."

"He ought to have a hot bath, that is what he needs," suggested a third; "it would tone him up."

"It is hideously cruel, anyway," cried a youthful suffragist, who nursed piggie on her knee just to make him feel comfy. "Do you know what they are selling him for? 'We have him killed. I don't see how they can; he's such a sweet little thing. I'm sure it would not be healthy—I mean for the people who ate him. He is a si-lick pig.'"

When a New England woman who has brought up large families of pigs declared that in her opinion he was in need of doctoring, a delegation went to Miss Harriet May Mills, state president. They told her first the pig was sick; second, the pig was dead; third, the pig was not pure food, and fourth, if somebody did not take him away at once and promise that nothing would happen to him some would report to the board of health.

Herbert Carpenter, whose wife was gathering coin at the white elephant table, happened to be passing. Everybody told him about the outrage.

One fact revealed to him that the pig's complaint was the combination of an aching void and a lack of the society of his peers. Mr. Carpenter, however, concealed his discoveries till he had paid hard cash for the porker and taken a solemn oath to keep him at his country place until a green old age.

Then warm milk was applied where it had the most effect, and piggie slept. While waiting for his departure via automobile, in charge of a pretty girl, the piglet was removed from the pen and allowed to have the freedom of the hall. He chewed up all the suffragist shoe leather that came his way and exhibited a new zest for the joys of life.

Farm land in this country, exclusive of buildings, more than doubled in value between the years 1900 and 1910. The gain was 117.4 per cent.

WAS ONCE BUT ASYLUM WAIF

Hawley "Girl of Mystery"
Defies Solution of Her Identity.

KEEPS PAST SECRET

New York, March 2.—That Margaret Cameron, variously called "The Girl of Mystery" and "The Cinderella of the Hawley Millions," was at one time an innocent and dependent country maid, seems hardly credible in the light of the shrewd and sophisticated manner in which she is playing her cards in the great gamble over the late railroad magnate's estate.

The former Kansas City waif is proving herself to be an exceedingly strong-minded, though tactful, person, wholly capable of taking care of herself. The brothers, sisters, nephews and nieces of Edwin Hawley are in great fear of her because of papers she says she possesses that give her almost unlimited power over the estate.

That they have convinced themselves she is not "bluffing" is evidenced by the fact that they have announced that they will not try to get the town mansion and the country place at Edgingham Park away from her and that they will not object to the setting aside of enough money to keep up these properties in the style in which they have been maintained. In other words, this practically amounts to a concession of all that she asks.

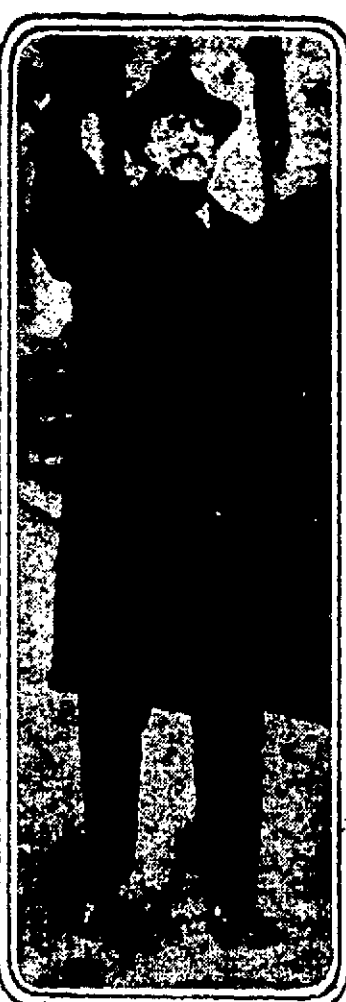

Miss Cameron is doing all she can to keep out of the newspapers. Not one reporter has caught sight of her since the financier's death. Not one word of interview has been given out by her. The papers have been full of stories about her, mostly unfavorable, but she has not deigned to let anyone know that she ever heard of them or cared what was being printed about her.

Collecting for Her Wasted Life.

She is devoting herself strictly to the business in hand, seeing that Margaret Cameron gets all that she thinks is coming to her for years of secluded life at the behest of Hawley, who seems never to have wanted anybody to know she was on earth. Except for his companionship, she lived utterly alone. Now she is going to collect the full score.

The mystery of her identity and how she entered the Hawley household remains unpenetrated. All that has been

TEDDY AFTER CAMERA MEN.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT
THREATENING TO SMASH
PHOTOGRAPHER'S CAMERA

Colonel Roosevelt is out against the camera men, and, as shown in the accompanying picture, he is denouncing a snapshot performer who dared take a "shot" at him. This is his first outbreak against the photograph boys.

Learned has come from the servants. They have heard that she was an orphan in Kansas City, living in an asylum, forgotten by all her relatives, if she had any. The financier's eye fell upon her fifteen years ago, when she was fifteen, and he was attracted to her. She was transferred to his household, William Campbell, for eight years superintendent of Edgingham Park, the Hawley country place, tells more about her than has been revealed hitherto, but his information dates only from her entry into the big house where he was foreman.

"Mr. Hawley bought Edgingham Park sixteen years ago, when he lived at 234

West Fifth street, Manhattan," said Campbell at the Sherman house, in Babylon. "One day, a year after we moved to Babylon, a man I knew as Baron Frank Natalie, drove up to the house. With him was a fifteen-year-old girl in short dress, whom we came to know as Margaret Cameron.

"The child did not seem to be happy at Babylon, and on one occasion attempted suicide. This was in the summer of 1902. Mrs. Hawley Seymour, who acted for her brother as housekeeper then, was seated in the kitchen of the big house with me, when we heard a scream from the direction of the lake, 250 feet away. "We both rushed out. There was the girl (she was now about twenty years old) struggling in the water.

"I leaped and seized her. She struggled violently against rescue, and after I had dragged her out, Mrs. Seymour and I had difficulty in carrying her to the boathouse.

Her Attempt at Suicide Fails.

"She had evidently not been decided as to just how she would commit suicide, for clutched in her hand was a bottle of carbolic acid. She screamed loudly, and cried: 'Let me alone! I want to die! If you don't let me die now, I will kill myself some other day!'

"We coaxed her back to the house and summoned Dr. A. J. Woodruff from the village.

Evidently she was the victim of a fit of despondency and had attempted to die while giving way to it.

"Her fit of despondency was temporary and may have been due to something Mr. Hawley's sister had said.

"It is not true that 'Babe' or 'Dolly,' as Miss Cameron was called at various times, was lavishly entertained at Edgingham Park, or that she was introduced as Mr. Hawley's niece," continued Campbell.

"Instead, the girl was kept in the background as much as possible. It seemed to be Mr. Hawley's desire to have to one know that she was there, or, if it was known, to have it thought that she was merely a servant. To this extent the most extraordinary precautions were taken to guard her from visitors. When guests came she was either sent to the city in charge of Natalie or sent into a remote section of the house.

"Among the visitors to the house who never laid eyes on her were Mr. and Mrs. Collis P. Huntington, J. Pierpont Morgan, George Crocker, Mr. McCrea, Lillian Russell and others.

Hawley Kept Her Hidden.

"While these guests were being wined and dined in the main part of the house, Miss Cameron was either in the servants' quarters or sequestered in a remote part of the house.

"There was always something strange about the young woman. One Saturday morning, I remember, during a week-end party at Babylon, I found Miss Cameron wandering about through the bushes, collecting and eating berries. I spoke to her, and she told me that she hadn't eaten for two days, that she was almost starved."

Almost as interesting as the romance of "Dolly" Cameron and Mr. Hawley is the attitude taken by the four brothers and sisters of the railroad wizard, who will inherit the estate. These heirs—Charles and Samuel Hawley, Miss Anne Hawley and Mrs. Nellie Hawley Seymour—and not in the least concerned over the value of the estate. In fact, they would not be in the least disturbed if it should turn out, as reported, that Miss Cameron has a will or bill of sale covering a large part of the estate.

The four are all upward of fifty years, quick, abstemious country folk, whose wants are simple. Only one of the four, Charles Hawley, has an income of more than $75 or $100 a month.

Suitors for Miss Hawley Now.

Miss Anne Hawley occupied two rooms on the second floor of an unpainted frame house in Chatham, the lower floor of which is used as a grocery. Since the publication of the facts of her inheritance her modest quarters have become the Mecca of many of the bachelor beaux in the neighborhood. There is intense rivalry for the hand of the spinster, and it is said that she has already received several proposals of marriage.

Miss Hawley is unmarried, however. She sits quietly at her sewing, and her thoughts seem centered more on the particular piece of embroidery she is working on than on romance or finance.

"I am too old to learn new tricks," she said to a visitor. "So I shall keep on in my present mode of life, no matter how much money I receive. Leave Chatham? Mercy, no! I was born and brought up here and have lived here all my life. I wouldn't live anywhere else for anything in the world."

Mrs. Seymour, a simple woman of fifty-five, was equally reluctant when asked her plans.

"Yes, it will be very nice to have so much money," she said, while her husband, pipe in mouth, sat opposite, with only the glowing stove between in the living room of their modest little home. "No, we haven't formed any plans. We'll just wait until we get the money and then decide."

Simple Life for Hawley Heirs.

A little exasperated at the stolidness of the woman members of the family, the questioner waylaid Samuel Hawley when he called for his mail at the post-office.

"Is there anything you want that you intend to buy with your money?" he was asked. "Do you want to go abroad or purchase paintings or limousines or a string of horses or a mansion?" Samuel Hawley looked slightly disturbed. He bent a look of mild curiosity upon the questioner.

"Why, no," he replied. "I hadn't thought much of those things. I guess I'll just stay right along here the same as I always have. I'm going to live and die right here in Chatham."

Then it was borne into the startled intelligence of the interviewer that there is nothing that these people want that a $10 bill can't supply. They intend to lead the same simple, uneventful existence—up at 6, to bed at 9, except on Sundays and Wednesdays (prayer meeting nights). And they call this a commercial age!

BACKACHE ALMOST UNBEARABLE.

Is an almost certain result of kidney trouble. Dr. Toney, 305 E. Olive St., Bloomington, Ill., says: "I suffered with backache and pains in my kidneys which were almost unbearable. I gave Foley Kidney Pills a good trial, and they did wonders for me. Today I can do a real hard day's work and not feel the effects." Foley Kidney Pills will cure any case of kidney and bladder trouble not beyond the reach of medicine. No medicine can do more. Dreier Drug Co.

Is too often the fatal sequence, and coughs that hang on weaken the system and lower the vital resistance. R. G. Collins, Postmaster, Barre, Vt., J. J. was troubled with a severe la grippe cough. He says: "I would be completely exhausted after each fit of violent coughing. IS FRIEND OF ABUSED HORSES

New York Woman Spends Days on Streets in Their Behalf.

WARS ON CRUELTY

New York, March 2.—The staunchest friend that the horses of New York have was in court in their behalf recently and succeeded in having John Lavery, of No. 629 West Forty-seventh street, fined $10 on the charge of cruelty to animals.

This friend, who has appeared as complainant and witness in hundreds of similar cases, is Mrs. Claude Harvey, of No. 77 West Fifth street.

Mrs. Harvey is a woman of considerable means, but she spends days upon the streets looking for horses which are being abused and making the drivers be considerate of their charges. The colder the day and the fiercer the storm, the earlier is she out on her mission of mercy, and during the summer, when she says horses suffer most, she spends at home only the time necessary for sleeping and eating. She is known from the Battery to Yonkers and from one river to the other, and when she walks along the street about seven out of ten drivers of every class of vehicle salute cleaning department. Mrs. Harvey spent ten fearful days standing upon a pile at the city dump on Thirty-eighth street directing untrained workmen how to empty their carts so as to avoid running into one another and with the least hardship to the beasts.

"It was unpleasant work," Mrs. Harvey said, "but it had to be done, and there was no one to do it except me. The workmen, who were hastily given the jobs, were many of them unused to the work, so that the horses were bumping into one another and being crippled by the carts; so I took up my stand and told the drivers on which side to go and prevented them in their haste from at times beating the horses because they were unable to pull loads too heavy for them."

Mrs. Harvey's arrest was finally caused by one irate contractor who didn't want his men stopped; but she says that she was dismissed at the police court without a reprimand and told by the judge to continue her work.

"I have always loved horses," Mrs. Harvey told a reporter, "and I started in working for the horses of New York when I came here immediately after the San Francisco earthquake. My husband and I had a large stock farm in California, on which we raised all kinds of fancy stock as well as work horses. The horse doesn't like to be driven and I can take a balky one and cure him of his habit—not for others, but so he won't talk with me."

"Taking the risk of having it sound like self-praise, I will say that I absolutely don't know the meaning of fear and there is no task at which I stop. It should be done. I want to improve conditions for the drivers, too, and it is to the credit of many of them that as soon as their attention is called to their unintentional cruelty they become interested in the animals which are working for them so faithfully and I never have any more trouble with them."

"I go to the contractors and business firms to try to get them to look out for the welfare of their horses as well as trying to make the drivers do it. Then every week I inspect some of the big stables on my own responsibility, to see if they are well kept and sanitary. Of course I often meet with abuse and discourtesy, but, as I said, I am not afraid of it."

"I have had hundreds and hundreds of cases up in court, and most of them have resulted in fines. There is far more cruelty to horses here in New York than any one realizes. A fine, big truck horse in the heavy trucking business has an average life of two years, while in the country, at heavy work, he would be good for twenty years—so you can see the wear and tear. The horses are so hard-worked in the winter that when the summer comes and they have to go on laboring in their worn-out condition, in the intense heat, they die in shocking numbers."

Mrs. Harvey is a slender woman in the prime of life, full of spirit and energy. She is taller than the average, with large brown eyes, brown hair and a merry laugh—and she laughed often in telling of her battles with surly drivers and the long cold hours she spends spreading ashes for animals which have fallen on icy pavements and encouraging them to make another effort to move their heavy loads.

It is 390 feet long, 66 feet beam, of 16,400 tons register. Its 12,000 horsepower gives a normal speed of 17 knots per hour. The ship has accommodation for 330 first, 120 second, 130 intermediate and 80 third class passengers.—Consular Report.

QUIT FEUDS TO LEARN LETTERS

"Moonlight School" Now Doing Wonders in Kentucky.

OLDEST PUPIL IS 86

Morehead, Ky., March 2.—"Moonlight schools" sounds suspiciously like a sub-rosa social institution with the young folk of the neighborhood enrolled as "pupils." But they are far from that. They are adult night schools arranged by Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, superintendent of the Rowan county schools and president of the Kentucky Educational association, and they proved one of the greatest influences against illiteracy ever attempted in the south.

Mrs. Stewart's report, just made public, shows that more than 1,200 men and women—the oldest 86 and the youngest 21—were enrolled, and probably half of these were unable to read or write when the schools began last fall. The name was given the schools by the pupils because sessions were held only on moonlight nights, for at other times it was not safe to attempt to travel over the mountain roads and through the dark ravines.

Is Old Feud County. A few years ago the success of a moonlight "affair" in Rowan county probably would have been measured by the number of the dead, for this is one of the famous feud counties and one pitched battle in this city is a classic of its kind. But that day is past.

"The plan for the 'moonlight schools' was approved by the Southern Educational association," says Mrs. Stewart, "and in Rowan county we hastened to put it into effect. The teachers in the county schools offered the extra service without pay and we expected that the first night would bring us 150 pupils. You can imagine our pleasant surprise when more than 1,200 appeared. Of course we needed more teachers and these were recruited among business men, farmers and bankers who had been school teachers but had quit for more profitable work."

"More than half of those who came could not read or write, but others were merchants and farmers who wanted to learn to keep accounts and such work. These classes were taken over by the teachers who came to our assistance."

Newspapers as Text Books. "We spared our pupils the humiliation of using primers by providing county newspapers supplied each week free by the publishers as text books. Copy books, in which to copy the personal items as proof of writing ability, were furnished free for home work."

"We asked all pupils why they attended and the men usually replied because they were ashamed to make their mark to business transactions. Mothers told us they wanted to learn to write to sons and daughters in distant communities and to read with their own eyes the letters these children wrote to them. A number of preachers enrolled because they could read only parts of their Bibles, and young mothers with babies in their laps were ambitious to teach the little ones. And a hundred or more lumbermen and merchants responded that they realized they could not maintain business success without being able to keep accounts."

Write Name and Read Bible. "Among beginners a desire to write their names and to read the Bible seemed to be the first ambition. Stewart men stood at the blackboards after a few evenings' training and wrote their names with greater pride than ever filled the heart of a graduate upon receiving his degree. Aged men read from the newspapers their first sentences about Rowan county's greatness and her promising future and assented to it with loud and emphatic exclamations: "That's the truth!"

"One veteran who had mastered the intricacies of his autograph and could write it, exclaimed with joy: 'Glory, I will never have to make my mark any more!'"

"Numbers of cases are reported of husbands who have taught their wives in their homes, and wives who have taught their husbands preparatory to entering the second session of the night schools, they having missed the first. And one case is recorded where a man who made his initial effort at mastering the alphabet in a night school under the instruction of a young girl, a few weeks later taught his brother's wife to read and write."

Marked Result for Good. "The effect on community life has been wholesome. Some of the night schools resolved themselves into adult Sunday school classes; some have, by private subscription, started day schools; more correspondence is passing through the mails; more literature is being circulated and read; education is more popular; there is an increased respect for law and order; an intensified love for the Bible and all religious institutions is manifested; the county paper circulations have gone forward in bounds. 'Next year we will hold another term.'"

Take Care of Yourself in Time

Kidney weakness is the forerunner of two dangerous diseases—Rheumatism and Bright's Disease.

IT TAKES BUT LITTLE TO BRING THIS ABOUT—the weakness, slight at first, is usually thought insignificant and therefore neglected. To avoid serious complications, treatment should start with the first hint of trouble—should be kept handy, ready for instant use. A pill or two now and then insures perfect freedom from kidney disorders. It means strong, healthy kidneys regular in their action and the blood free from injurious waste matter.

NYAL'S Kidney Pills
